Inflation Hikes Cost Of Drugs On City Streets

By H.J. ANDERSON

Star Staff Writers

Inflation has hit street-drug prices in Lincoln. Prices of some drugs are one and a half to two times as much as they were two years ago.

As the prices go up, stakes get higher, and investments are increasingly protected with guns and knives.

And, despite reports to the contrary, high school and college students say alcohol has not usurped the popularity of other drugs.

That's the situation as described by six drug dealers and some Lincoln students interviewed by Lincoln Star Column A — reporters. Meetings happened or were arranged so that even the reporter would not know the dealers' names.

Operations Bigger

Times have changed from the late 1960s when dealers were friends who kept a supply of drugs so people could get high, they said. Now operations are bigger, more organized, more businesslike.

One dealer said he considers himself a "small businessman" whose market happens to be marijuana. He buys at harvest time when prices are low and holds onto the product until prices go up.

"It's spooky, though," he said. He knows the people he buys from call themselves "The Organization" and they can get grass (marijuana) for him any time of the year from warehouses they maintain "somewhere in the South."

"There's a lot invested in an operation that smooth," he said. He used to avoid just heroin because "everyone knows" it's handled by the Mafia. Now, he avoids everything except grass and acid (LSD).

Contract Said Out

One dealer in Lincoln used to sell everything, including hard narcotics. He heard there was a contract out on him in Omaha because someone accused him of trying to cheat his supplier. The city is a major source of Lincoln's heroin, he said. He got out of business, and out of Lincoln for a while in a hurry.

Prices are also higher because demand is up, dealers said. For instance, one high school senior, who said she started smoking grass in eighth grade, has a brother in fourth grade who smokes grass.

More smokers at more ages mean more demand.

Demand for hard drugs, one person said, is also increasing among some blue-collar workers, young working people, truck drivers, motorcycleists who he described as "hard-driving, hard-fighting guys who think marijuana is for people who believe in peace and love."

Hard drugs include amphetamines (stimulants or "speed"), barbiturates (sedatives or "downers"), LSD, or hard narcotics such as heroin, morphine and cocaine.

Deals Getting Rougher

One dealer said the increasing inclusion of those kind of people is another reason street deals are getting rougher.

That dealer said prices for him have gone down because his connections are better, more direct, so he skips some middle people who used to take a share of the profits.

Still, he sells acid for $2 a hit (one dose); white crosses (a kind of speed), 100 tablets for $20; and grass for $15 a lid (one ounce).

He said he buys acid for 35-cents-a-hit; and speed for 11 cents a pill.

He said he has no weapons.

Another dealer said he has a small calibre pistol plus a .44 magnum, two rifles and a shotgun. He's a Vietnam veteran, so knows his way around guns, he said.

His prices to buyers are the same as those quoted above. He also sells cocaine, $75 for a gram. He said it takes about $5 worth of good cocaine to get high.

Two years ago, he said, street prices were $1 for one hit of acid; $10-$15 for 100 white crosses; and $10 for an ounce of marijuana.

Prices Up 50-100%

His prices, then, have risen 50-100%. He had to raise them, he said, because the cost to him has gone up. He can't sell more, he said, without taking too many risks, so he has to make more each sale.

"Everybody's trying to make more money," he said.

He sells his marijuana to high school and college students; speed, mostly to truck drivers and some college students (especially fraternities, he said); cocaine, to young working people; and acid, mostly to high school students, he said.

Students buy grass because it's cheap, he said, truck drivers and college students use speed to stay awake for work and studies. Cocaine goes to young working people because they can best afford the expensive "high," he said. And he sells acid in high schools because that's where his connections are.

Four high school seniors said they can buy every drug except heroin in school.

One girl said everybody in Lincoln high schools "uses or has been around grass." She said she sometimes smokes grass before school, and lots of people smoke during the lunch break.

'Not Much Evidence'

Southeast High School Principal Wesley Lauterbach said there is "not much evidence of usage" in the school. He said he thinks his school is typical of Lincoln high schools.

"A person would be naive to say kids don't use drugs," Lauterbach said. But he thinks students prefer to use them "with music and soft lights" instead of during school.

Capt. Paul Jacobson, commander of the Lincoln Police major crimes unit, acknowledges that the drug scene appears to be getting rougher.

"It has graduated to more weapons," he said. "But they are used mostly to protect against a rip-off. They (dealers) will keep a weapon around the house to protect them against people who might steal the stuff from them."

A counselor has been assigned to "work with kids" the first time they are discovered at school using drugs, instead of arresting them, Jacobson said.

"We'd rather get to them at 15 than at 19," he noted. "At 19, the only time they understand is when the cell door hits them in the ass."

"Column A", a Monday feature of the Star, attacks and analyzes a wide range of Lincoln/Lancaster situations. The column is researched and written by teams of reporters with an issue, not an ax, to grind.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Ford administration is considering asking Congress to raise the federal tax on gasoline by anywhere from 10 to 20 cents a gallon, a White House source says.

But this same source said the administration fears a public outcry if and when such a tax plan is announced and is unsure whether Congress would approve it.

The purpose of the higher gasoline tax would be two-fold: to discourage gasoline consumption, and to raise new tax revenue to finance federal programs, such as public service unemployment.

Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., said after Ford's economic summit conference Saturday he expects the administration will propose the tax which he predicted would be "highly controversial."

Tax About 4¢ Gallon Now

The federal tax on gasoline is now about four cents a gallon. States also impose a tax on gasoline averaging about eight cents.

A White House economist said a 10-cent increase in the gasoline tax would raise about $9 billion in extra revenue.

He said the administration also has been discussing a 15-cent increase and a 20-cent increase.

"If I had to make a political decision, I would guess we would opt for a 10-cent tax," this source said. The final decision on the tax and its amount rests with Ford, he noted.

'Public Won't Be Happy'

"We know the public won't be happy about this and we can't be sure Congress will go along," this source said. "But we think it's something that would help," he added.

The gasoline tax increase would be submitted to Congress as part of Ford's new economic policy. The tax is understood to have its chief support from Treasury Secretary William E. Simon.

A White House spokesman, without discussing specific figures, said Sunday: "A special tax on gasoline is one of many ideas under study."

AAA Opposes Tax

The American Automobile Association issued a statement urging the administration "to consider more realistic solutions to the vexing problem of inflation, such as a reduction in government spending."

Reports circulated in August that the administration was considering a 10 cents-a-gallon increase in the gasoline tax. On Aug. 30, then White House Press Secretary Jerald F. TerHorst said Ford does not favor the increase because it would be "exorbitant, unwise and unnecessary." TerHorst said the declaration tied in with an earlier statement that Ford will not seek any tax increase this year.

Ford said a week ago Saturday that his economic program would go to Congress within 10 days, which means by Oct. 1.

It is expected to include help for the housing industry in the form of mortgage interest subsidies, budget cuts, a public service employment program and some tax relief for groups hard hit by inflation.

Increasing Pressure

Congress, which plans a recess from Oct. 11 until after the November elections, is under increasing pressure to work the rest of the year on economy measures.

At the summit conference, Ford announced three steps he has taken:

— Consolidation of the government's domestic and foreign economy efforts under an Economic Policy Board, to be headed by Simon.

— Establishment of a White House labor-management committee to advise him on major economic policy.

— Appointment of Princeton economist Albert Rees to head the Council on Wage and Price Stability recently authorized by Congress.

'Great Effort'

Ford urged all Americans "to join me in a great effort — and to become inflation-fighters and energy-savers."

GREEN TICKET . . . candidate Bals mans booth.

Green Ticket Group Puts Case To Public

By H. J. ANDERSON
Star Staff Writer

The League of Women Voters gave the Green Ticket candidates a chance to put their case before the people at an oldtime political rally Sunday afternoon at Lincoln's Antelope Park.

Ironically, the league is considering a law suit against Nebraska's Natural Resources Districts boards of directors. Green Ticket candidates aspire to one of those boards.

Eugene Bals and several cocandidates sponsored a booth at the league's rally. The booth was among those of about 50 candidates on park lawns full of 500 spectators.

Many Booths Sponsored

Booths were sponsored by candidates for Lancaster County attorney, clerk, sheriff, registrar of deeds, and board of commissioners, and Nebraska governor, lieutenant, governor and attorney general.

Speakers included Charles Thone and Hess Dyas, candidates to Congress from Nebraska's First District, and Omaha Sen. Ernest Chambers and Hastings Sen. Richard Marvel, both trying to unseat J. James Exon in a gubernatorial race.

The Green Ticket is 12 candidates for Women Cost Club Charter

Chicago (UPI)—The Kiwanis International Board of Directors Sunday voted unanimously to revoke the charter of a Colorado Springs, Colo., chapter because it has two women members.

The service organization's board also said it would hold a hearing on the issue Feb. 1 in Chicago.

The Cheyenne Mountain Kiwanis Club kept two women on its membership rolls despite orders from the club's international headquarters to remove them.

"It is against our constitution to have female members," a spokesman for the Kiwanis said. "Our board has to enforce the constitution."

the Lower Platte South Natural Resources District. Bals said they're a "group of citizens concerned about natural resources."

They banded together in a novel plan, a ticket race, which Bals said they felt would help pool their campaign resources and spread more information about a potentially powerful yet little-known board.

12 Candidates Running

The 12 Green Ticket candidates are vying for positions on the 21-member Lower Platte South NRD board. There are 567 candidates.

There are 10 subdistricts in Lower Platte South. Two candidates are elected from each subdistrict, and one is elected at large.

Since subdistricts were apportioned on geographic size and water drainage considerations, population disparities in subdistricts are as much as 10-1.

So the 1969 Legislature, which set it up, allowed all Lower Platte South NRD residents to vote in all 11 races. The State Supreme Court upheld the NRDs in an April, 1974 decision.

However, some league members still question whether the set-up complies with a one man-one vote regulation for elections, a league member said Sunday.

Lawyer Investigating

A lawyer is investigating possible litigation, he said.

Bals said he thinks everybody is affected by NRD board decisions, through recreation, vacation or protection. Lakes and parks, agriculture and land use, and flood control are everyone's concerns, he said.

Bals is a graduate student in architecture at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln. His main concern, he said, is land use.

"Some of our best land is being lost" to poorly located industrial sites and city or suburban developments, he said.

Other Green Ticket candidates are Grace Kennedy, Edwin Matulka, Walter Bagley, Marie Arnot, Moneta Mathews, James Studnicka, Leon Satterfield, Glenn Nicolai, Delmar Timm, Dan Schlitt and John McClendon.

Police Relax Blockade . . . Archbishop Takes Food To Guerrillas, Hostages

Santo Domingo (UPI) — Police relaxed their blockade of the occupied Venezuelan consulate Sunday to allow a Roman Catholic archbishop make two deliveries of food and drink to left-wing guerrillas, an American woman diplomat and five other hostages.

Archbishop Hugh Eduardo Polanco Brito appeared twice during the day to take food to the consulate doorstep. He told newsmen he had spoken with guerrilla chieftain Radames Mendes Vargas by telephone and that he hoped for a solution soon "in the best possible manner."

Polanco Brito's visit to the consulate after he had spoken with a top aide to President Joaquin Balaguer led to speculation that negotiations may have begun with the guerrillas although there was no official word.

One Said Wounded

The archbishop said one of the persons inside the consulate was reportedly wounded but he could not identify him.

Polanco Brito first took a carton of 12 sandwiches and a dozen soft drinks to the consulate. Hours later he showed up a second time with more sandwiches, soft drinks, cigarettes and a bag containing "personal effects" for the guerrillas and captives.

A government spokesman said the pro-Castro commandos, holding American diplomat Barbara Hutchison, two Venezuelan diplomats and three others since Friday, had delivered a third death threat deadline to meet the ransom demands, but he declined to reveal the hour.

The guerrillas have demanded a ransom payment of $1 million, the release of 37 political prisoners and safe conducts for the prisoners and the guerrillas to Cuba or Mexico, according to police and government sources. They let two deadlines pass Saturday without shooting the hostages.

Water, Medicine Requested

The archbishop said guerrilla chieftain Radames Mendez Vargas had requested water and medicines for an unidentified wounded person in the building. Lights and water to the police surrounded consulate building remained cut. The fact that the police allowed the sandwiches and drinks into the building reflected their conviction that there were only six guerrillas and not 25 as the commandos claimed.

The Dominican government has kept an icy silence on the guerrilla demands.

Polanco Brito said the guerrillas threw him a note for President Joaquin Balaguer and told him it was very important. He gave it to the authorities.

Seemed In Good Health

He said he saw two of the hostages from a distance, the 47-year-old Hutchison and the Venezuelan consul, but he could not talk with them. He said both appeared to be in good health.

He deposited the box of sandwiches and drinks, first in 24 hours to reach the seized building, on the doorstep.

Polanco Brito and television commentator Salvador Pittaluga had been selected as mediators by the guerrillas.

Chao Escapes

A police spokesman said Sunday Pablo Chao, the hostage who escaped the consulate Saturday, had been interrogated in the military hospital where he was recovering from bullet wounds. The spokesman said Chao, an exporter from Taiwan, related he observed only six guerrillas with four submachineguns, three pistols, and a few hand grenades.

The guerrillas claimed to have the building mined with sufficient explosives to blow it up.

"Apparently there are only six guerrillas, and apparently they do not have sufficient explosives to cause irreparable damage to the consulate," the police spokesman said.

Dulce Mejia, one of the two consulate hostage secretaries, told her wealthy banker father by phone the captives agreed that it would be impossible to raise $1 million ransom privately as the guerrillas at one time demanded, family sources said.

Guerrilla Quoted

"Well, commission your souls to heaven then, if imperialism and the Dominican government abandon you," she quoted the guerrilla as saying.

Consul Jesus de Gregorio threw a message in a bottle out of the window Saturday and another Sunday morning. Saturday's was for U.S. Ambassador Robert Hurwitch from Miss Hutchison, and Sunday's was from de Gregorio himself for President Balaguer.

Authorities declined to release their contents.

We'll Report Your Ideas!

If you have a favorite way to fight inflation, the cost of living and the energy crunch, there are two places you can have wide impact: at the White House and via The Lincoln Star.

President Ford has invited Americans to send him their do-it-yourself ideas for conquering the nation's economic woes at the White House, Washington, D.C., 20500.

The Lincoln Star also invites you to send in your ideas. The best suggestions will be published next Monday in The Star. Idea deadline is Thursday, Oct. 3. Send suggestions, 350 words or less, to City Editor, Lincoln Star, P.O. Box 81600, Zip Code 68501.

New Senate Testimony Shows FBI Kept Watch On Harriman

WASHINGTON (AP)—Newly released Senate testimony discloses that the FBI kept watch on former Ambassador W. Averell Harriman's home to identify participants in a meeting there of State Department personnel opposed to the 1970 Cambodian invasion.

Former FBI agent Bernard Wells told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee he believed that the FBI learned of the May 18, 1970 meeting through a wiretapped conversation. However, there was no indication that the tapped telephone was Harriman's.

Wells also said there was no attempt to overhear conversations during the meeting inside Harriman's house here.

Harriman, a former New York governor and former U.S. ambassador to the Soviet Union, at that time was a vocal opponent of American policy in Indochina.

The Harriman surveillance was disclosed Saturday when the committee released "sanitized" transcripts of closed hearings on Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's role in the wiretapping of 13 government officials and four newsmen.

The released testimony showed that Kissinger told the panel that it was then-FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover who fingered the first four individuals wiretapped in a 1969-71 investigation into leaks of national security secrets.

By contrast, FBI records showed that requests for the wiretaps originated outside the FBI.

Reached for comment on the reported FBI stake-out, Harriman said Sunday he was unaware of any surveillance on his home, had no written record of any meeting May 18, 1970, and could not recall who may have taken part.

"Where they ever got the idea we were talking about Cambodia, I don't know," he added.

Harriman indicated he was not surprised to learn of the surveillance. "My position on the war was well known," he said, noting that he had been attacked publicly for his views by then Vice President Spiro T. Agnew.

Released by the Senate panel along with the censored testimony was a staff chronology prepared for the committee from documents supplied by the FBI.

The staff report said FBI Director Hoover attached to the FBI report of the Harriman surveillance a handwritten note saying: "An excellent job. I talked to Haldeman at Key Biscayne." That was apparently a reference to H.R. Haldeman, White House chief of staff under ex-President Richard M. Nixon.

Besides Wells, other FBI witnesses — including Inspector Thomas J. Smith and Deputy Associate Director James B. Adams — testified that the effort to combat national security leaks involved physical surveillance as well as wiretaps.

The Foreign Relations Committee investigation was undertaken at Kissinger's request after publication of excerpts from FBI documents in apparent contradiction with the secretary of state's testimony at his confirmation hearings a year ago that he did not initiate the wiretaps.

In asking for the review, Kissinger had said he would resign if his name was not cleared.

The committee issued a report concluding that Kissinger had not misrepresented his role in the wiretapping and reaffirming its initial finding that it constituted no grounds to bar his confirmation.

The panel at its closed-door

N.Y. Times Summary

Aid Bill Lobbying Stopped

Washington — Administration officials said President Ford and Secretary of State Kissinger ordered various government agencies late last week to stop lobbying for a new foreign aid bill in an effort to block amendments that would restrict presidential freedom of action in foreign affairs. Rather than trying for a new bill, the officials said, the administration sought to extend foreign-aid spending by means of a continuing resolution which is based on last year's legislation.

Oil Price Long-Term Goal

Washington — Two days of talks by the finance ministers of the United States, Japan, West Germany and France ended here with no indication that they had agreed on action to meet the problems caused by rising oil prices. It was reported unofficially that this was no time to act on the issue of oil prices, but all agreed that a lower price was a crucial long-term goal.

Nixon To Dominate Trial

Washington — The Watergate conspiracy cover-up case will go to trial Monday morning, two years and three months after the cover-up allegedly began and nearly two months after it caused the final collapse of the Nixon presidency. There will be either five or six defendants, depending on how Federal Judge John J. Sirica rules on a pending motion. Among them are John N. Mitchell, the former attorney general, and H. R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman, who had been chief assistants of former President Nixon. It appears, however, that the trial will be dominated to great extent by Nixon. An official close to the Watergate case said the trial would provide "more depth to the picture of Nixon's involvement."

Robbers Found Shot To Death

New York — Two men, who police said tried to rob a card game in a private home, were shot to death. Their bodies, trussed up in canvas wrappings, were discovered at the bottom of an embankment of a Long Island Railroad storage yard. The slain men, both cabbies, were identified as Jerry Gaines of Flushing and Paul Moore of Bayside. They had previous arrest records, police said.

First Lady Is Resting Comfortably

Bethesda, Md. (UPI) — Betty Ford was reported rested and more comfortable Sunday, a day after removal of her cancerous right breast.

Her condition "continues stable and her progress from the operation is satisfactory," said White House spokesman Bill Roberts, relaying word from her doctors at Bethesda Naval Medical Center late Sunday afternoon.

"Mrs. Ford had a quiet day," Roberts said. "The doctors say she's had more rest and experienced less discomfort than yesterday. She sat up for 10 minutes during the day."

During an evening visit to the hospital, Ford, asked whether her illness might affect his plans to run for a full term in 1976 said, "we haven't thought beyond next week." He also visited Betty in the afternoon and reported the "prognosis is very favorable" for her recovery.

Doctors have been cautioning that no long term prognosis can be made until tests are completed to determine whether the cancer had spread to her lymph system. Surgeon William Fouty said the pathology report may be ready Monday, but there was no word whether the White House would make the results public immediately.

Earlier, the Sunday morning medical bulletin said that Mrs. Ford was fatigued and uncomfortable.

Mrs. Ford's surgeons issued a medical report saying she had a "reasonably good night" Saturday. They said she was experiencing "the expected amount of postoperative discomfort which is relieved with minimal medications," and added:

FORD ... at hospital.

"This morning she is alert but more aware of fatigue. The blood pressure, pulse, respiration and temperature are normal. There have been no unusual problems."

To Eat Monday

The doctors said they expect the first lady to begin eating Monday, although she will remain on intravenous feeding until then, and predicted that she will rest more easily Sunday and experience short periods of sitting up and even walking.

"Her post operative course continues to be satisfactory," the report said.

After lunching in the dining room of the VIP suite with other members of the family, and seeing his wife again, Ford reported that she was "a little tired," but said "she's doing remarkably well."

President Cheerful

The President appeared cheerful as he chatted about his wife's condition with reporters after attending early communion services at St. John's church.

50% INCREASE IN CASH BENEFITS FOR CANCER OR HEART ATTACK

REGARDLESS OF YOUR AGE OR THE SIZE OF YOUR FAMILY. YOU CAN ENROLL NOW—RIGHT FROM THIS PAGE. NO SALESMAN WILL CALL.

At last—a hospital insurance plan that takes into account today's higher cost of Intensive Care. And automatically adds $80 a day to your regular daily benefits when you're hospitalized and under Intensive Care. You can have the extra financial protection of this new plan for yourself, for your entire family quickly and easily—simply by mailing the Enrollment Form below. You cannot be refused this valuable protection because of your age, your health, or the size of your family.

A heart attack, bad accident or severe burn can do it. Cannot only put you in the hospital, but under Intensive Care for days.

And Intensive Care is just about the most expensive kind of hospital care there is.

In no time, the fees and charges for around-the-clock nursing, elaborate electronics monitoring equipment, plasma, specialists, intricate and lengthy surgery can add up to a staggering amount.

This new plan provides the extra help you need to meet the high cost of Intensive Care.

With this new Physicians Mutual hospital plan, you automatically get Intensive Care coverage — $80 a day added to the plan's regular daily cash benefits. The plan comes through with the extra help you need to handle the cost of Intensive Care — to avoid financial hardship at a time when your mind should be on getting well.

The plan pays you $80 a day Intensive Care benefits for up to 28 days for any one cause during a 6-month period. That is, if you are hospitalized in an Intensive Care Unit more than once during a 6-month period for the same or related reason, you collect $80 a day until all confinements total 28 days. If you are hospitalized and under Intensive Care for the same or related reason after 6 months, you're eligible to collect $80 a day for 28 days again.

Of course, if you're hospitalized in an Intensive Care Unit for a different, unrelated cause during the same 6-month period, you can collect $80 for up to 28 days for each different cause.

When you reach 65, or if you're now 65 or over, the plan pays Intensive Care benefits of $40 a day. And that's in addition to the plan's regular daily benefits, as well as the benefits paid by your other insurance — including Medicare if you have it.

Your basic hospitalization insurance benefits may fall short of your total expenses.

More than likely, you have hospitalization insurance. And your mind is at ease.

But — if you re-read your policy, it's very possible you'll find your benefits are no longer enough to cover today's sky-high hospital costs. That it makes no special provisions for the even higher costs of Intensive Care. Many policies have limits on the amounts that will be paid for room-and-board, doctor visits, medication, surgery and the many other hospital and medical services you might need. And what your hospitalization insurance doesn't cover, you have to pay out of your own pocket. These days, it could be more than you could comfortably write a check for.

If you're like most folks today, you're being squeezed tighter and tighter by inflation. You have less and less cash left over at the end of the month. Think what a blow an unexpected hospital bill would be — and how difficult it might be to pay in full, in cash. Many people in this spot have had to use their savings — borrow on their life insurance — get a loan from the bank — even turn to relatives for help.

You cannot be denied the protection of this new plan for any reason.

This new Doctors Hospital Plan with Intensive Care Benefits can help you avoid such a crisis. Because it provides the added financial help you need when faced with paying those expenses not covered by your other insurance — whether for routine hospital care or Intensive Care. It pays cash benefits direct to you — unless you tell us otherwise — when you or an insured member of your family is hospitalized for a covered sickness or accident.

You can enroll yourself and your whole family in the new Doctors Hospital Plan with Intensive Care Benefits simply by mailing the Enrollment Form below. You cannot be denied the protection of this plan no matter what your age, your health or how many there are in your family. Yes, in a matter of minutes, you can fill your need for additional financial protection when sick or injured — choosing from the four plans to your right the one that meets your family situation.

In addition to the regular daily hospital benefits and the Intensive Care coverage, you get these valuable "extra" benefits, as well.

Every month you stay with this plan, more benefits build up.

Here's a wonderful "plus" benefit you enjoy, no matter which plan you choose: When your policy is issued your insurance provides from $6,666.66 to $13,333.33, depending upon the plan you select. This is known as the "Aggregate of Benefits" in insurance language — what we call your maximum cash benefits.

Then, every month your policy is in force, a sum equal to your regular monthly premium (including your first monthly premium) is actually added to your maximum — your maximum grows each month! Similarly, when you have claims, your benefits are subtracted from the maximum.

Your policy is guaranteed renewable. We cannot drop you or raise your rates because of age, health or number of claims.

Your policy is guaranteed renewable for as long as you live and pay your premiums when due. We cannot refuse to renew your policy simply because you're another year older, there's been a change in your health or you've had a number of claims. Furthermore, the premium for your policy cannot be changed unless we do the same on all policies of this type in your entire state.

The benefits you collect are yours to keep or to spend.

The cash benefits you receive from The Doctors Hospital Plan with Intensive Care Benefits are all in addition to any other company or government insurance benefits you receive — hospital, major medical, or even Medicare. Every cent is paid direct to you unless you tell us otherwise. Spend it, use it any way you please, without having to account for this cash to anyone. Naturally, we can issue only one policy to you on a guaranteed issue basis. If you are already a Physicians Mutual policyholder and would like the information about additional coverage available to you, please write for details.

You get increased benefits when both husband and wife are insured.

If both you and your wife are insured by The Doctors Hospital Plan with Intensive Care Benefits you also get the following increased benefits. After your policy is 10 months old, maternity or any consequence of maternity will be covered. And should both you and your wife be hospitalized at the same time due to accidents, each of you will collect double the regular benefits we would ordinarily pay.

You receive a 50% increase in cash benefits for cancer or heart attack.

Your regular daily cash benefits are increased by 50% if you or any covered family member is hospitalized for cancer (including Leukemia and Hodgkin's Disease), or heart attack (acute myocardial infarction, coronary thrombosis and coronary occlusion).

*Refer to monthly renewal rates above. 17 IMPORTANT QUESTIONS ANSWERED ABOUT THE DOCTORS HOSPITAL PLAN WITH INTENSIVE CARE BENEFITS

1. Can I collect even if I carry other health insurance?

Yes. The Doctors Hospital Plan with Intensive Care Benefits pays you in addition to any other company or government health insurance you carry—individual, group—even Medicare!

2. How do I qualify?

Your only qualification is to complete and mail your Enrollment Form with $1 for your first month.

3. Which plan should I choose?

You may choose any of four low-cost plans—you can actually select the exact plan that suits you best!

If you're a young, growing family, we recommend the ALL-FAMILY PLAN. Covers you, your wife and all your dependent children (including future additions) between 3 months and 21 years of age who are unmarried and live at home.

If you are the only parent living with your children, we suggest the ONE-PARENT FAMILY PLAN. Covers you and all your dependent children between 3 months and 21 years who are unmarried and live at home.

If you have no children as yet or if you have children who are grown and no longer dependent on you, you will want the HUSBAND-WIFE PLAN.

Or, if you are living by yourself, choose the INDIVIDUAL PLAN.

4. When does my policy go into force?

Your policy is issued immediately, just as soon as we receive your Enrollment Form. From that day on, you are covered for accidents 24 hours a day, 365 days a year, anywhere in the world. Coverage for new sickness does not begin until your policy is 30 days old. This is a one-time-only waiting period. What's more, you collect for every day you spend in the hospital for a covered sickness or accident. We don't make you wait 3 or 4 days after you enter the hospital before you can begin getting benefits.

5. How much can I be paid?

Each plan has its own "Aggregate of Benefits," what we call the maximum.

For example, under the INDIVIDUAL PLAN, the maximum is $6,666.66—$19.04 daily when you are hospitalized.

Under the HUSBAND-WIFE PLAN, the maximum is $10,000.00—$19.04 daily when you are hospitalized, $14.28 daily when your wife is hospitalized.

Under the ALL-FAMILY PLAN, the maximum is $13,333.33—$19.04 daily when you are hospitalized, $14.28 daily when your wife is hospitalized, $9.52 daily for each insured child hospitalized.

Under the ONE-PARENT FAMILY PLAN, the maximum is $10,000.00—$19.04 daily when you are hospitalized, $9.52 daily for each insured child hospitalized.

6. Are any additional benefits included in The Doctors Hospital Plan with Intensive Care Benefits?

Yes. You receive a 50% increase in cash benefits if you or any insured family member is hospitalized for cancer (including Leukemia and Hodgkin's Disease), or heart attack (acute myocardial infarction, coronary thrombosis and coronary occlusion).

7. What are the "double" cash benefits?

If you and your wife are both hospitalized at the same time due to accidents and are covered by the ALL-FAMILY or HUSBAND-WIFE PLAN, you get double cash benefits. You get twice the amount—$56.64 daily!

8. What Intensive Care Benefits do I get?

You collect Intensive Care Benefits of an additional $80 a day ($40 a day if you're 65 or over) if you or a covered family member is hospitalized and under Intensive Care for up to 28 days for any one cause during a 6-month period. If you're in Intensive Care again for the same or a related cause during the same 6 months, you collect these additional benefits until a total of all confinements equal 28 days. If you're in for a different, unrelated reason during the same 6-month period, you can collect $80 a day in addition to your regular benefits up to 28 days for each different cause of confinement.

9. Do I collect even if I go to a Federal hospital?

Yes. You will receive one-half the applicable daily benefits for up to 4 full weeks for any one sickness or accident that puts you in a Federal hospital. And if the same condition puts you back in the hospital after you have resumed your normal activities for 6 months, you are eligible to collect again.

10. What if someone in my family has had a health problem that many occur again?

Even if one of your insured family members has suffered from chronic ailments in the past, pre-existing conditions are covered after the policy has been in force for one year.

11. Will I collect for job-related conditions even though I may receive Workmen's Compensation?

Yes. Even conditions for which you receive Workmen's Compensation or Employers Liability Law benefits are covered. You will receive one-half the applicable daily benefits for up to 4 weeks for any job-related condition that puts you in the hospital. And after you resume your normal activities for 6 months, you become eligible to collect again, if the same condition puts you back in the hospital.

12. Will I collect benefits for mental disorder?

Yes. You will receive one-half the applicable daily benefits for up to 4 full weeks for mental disorder that puts you or any insured family member in the hospital. And, after you return to your normal activities for 6 months, if the same condition puts you back in the hospital, you are eligible to collect again.

13. What conditions aren't covered?

Pregnancy or any consequence thereof (unless you have the ALL-FAMILY or the HUSBAND-WIFE PLAN), alcoholism or drug addiction.

14. Can I drop out any time? Can you drop me?

We guarantee to renew your policy for as long as you live and pay your premiums... regardless of your age, your health or how many claims you have. What's more, we cannot change your monthly premium for this protection unless we do the same on all policies of this type in your entire state. You, of course, can drop your policy on any renewal date.

15. How do I claim my cash benefits?

With your policy, you will receive a simple, easy-to-use Claim Form, which you send directly to the company when you want to claim your cash benefits.

16. How much does my first month cost?

Only $1.00, regardless of your age, the size of your family or the plan you select. After the first month, if you are under 65, you pay $6.75 a month for the INDIVIDUAL PLAN; $11.95 a month for the HUSBAND-WIFE PLAN; $14.95 a month for the ALL-FAMILY PLAN; $10.45 a month for the ONE-PARENT FAMILY PLAN. (When you become 65, or if you are over 65 now, premiums increase. See rates in box above.)

17. Why should I enroll right now?

Because an unexpected sickness or accident could strike without warning—and you will not be covered until your policy is in force. Remember, if for any reason you change your mind, you may return your policy within 30 days and you: $1.00 will be refunded immediately.

Now $1 enrolls you for the first month regardless of your age or the size of your family.

Choose the plan that suits you best:

Monthly renewal rates, thereafter, if under 65 are:

$6.75 for the INDIVIDUAL PLAN

PAYS YOU $19.04 a day cash—that's $571.20 for 30 days—when you are hospitalized. Maximum total benefit for all losses due to accidents and sickness under this plan—$6,666.66.

The perfect plan if you live alone or wish to insure just one member of your family.

$14.95 for the ALL-FAMILY PLAN

PAYS YOU $19.04 a day cash—that's $571.20 for 30 days—when you are hospitalized; $14.28 a day—that's $428.40 for 30 days—when your wife is hospitalized; and $9.52 a day—that's $285.60 for 30 days—for each insured child hospitalized. Maximum total benefit for all losses due to accidents and sickness for you, your wife and children under this plan—$13,333.33.

If yours is a young, growing family, this is for you. Covers you, your wife and all your dependent children (including future additions) between 3 months and 21 years of age who are unmarried and live at home.

$11.95 for the HUSBAND-WIFE PLAN

PAYS YOU $19.04 a day cash—that's $571.20 for 30 days—when you are hospitalized; $14.28 a day—that's $428.40 for 30 days—when your wife is hospitalized. Maximum total benefit for all losses due to accidents and sickness for both husband and wife under this plan—$10,000.00.

If you have no children, or if they are grown and no longer dependent on you, pick this plan.

$10.45 for the ONE-PARENT FAMILY PLAN

PAYS YOU $19.04 a day cash—that's $571.20 for 30 days—when you are hospitalized; $9.52 a day—that's $285.60 for 30 days—for each insured child hospitalized. Maximum total benefit for all losses due to accidents and sickness for you and your children under this plan—$10,000.00.

Ideal, if you are the only parent living with your children. Covers you and all your dependent children between 3 months and 21 years of age who are unmarried and live at home.

Whichever plan you choose, you get:

Accident protection from the very same day we receive your Enrollment Form and issue your policy. From that day on, you are covered for accidents 24 hours a day, 365 days a year, anywhere in the world.

Sickness protection, which does not begin until your policy is 30 days old. Thereafter, new sicknesses which begin from then on will be covered also. This is a one-time-only waiting period. What's more, you collect for every day you spend in the hospital for a covered sickness or accident. We don't make you wait 3 or 4 days after you enter the hospital before you can begin getting benefits. And you'll collect for as long and for as many times as you are hospitalized, up to the maximum (Aggregate of Benefits) of the plan you select!

Benefits for confinement in any lawfully operated hospital of your own choice. Confinement in nursing homes, convalescent or extended-care or self-care units of hospitals, is not included in your coverage under this policy.

Partial benefits. Mental disorder, and job-related conditions for which you receive Workmen's Compensation or Employers Liability Law benefits are covered too. You will receive one-half the applicable daily benefits for up to 4 full weeks for any one hospital stay. If the same condition puts you back in the hospital after you have resumed your normal activities for 6 months, you are eligible to collect benefits again.

Confinement in Federal hospitals is also covered. You will receive one-half the applicable daily benefits for up to 4 full weeks for any one sickness or accident which puts you in a Federal hospital. And if the same condition puts you back in the hospital after you have resumed your normal activities for 6 months, you are eligible to collect again.

50% increase in benefits... if any insured member of your family is hospitalized for cancer (including Leukemia and Hodgkin's Disease) or heart attack (acute myocardial infarction, coronary thrombosis and coronary occlusion).

Double benefits under All-Family or Husband-Wife plans. If both you and your wife are injured and hospitalized at the same time due to accidents only, you get double the regular benefits—$66.64 a day.

Maternity benefits under the All-Family and Husband-Wife plans. After your policy is 10 months old, Physicians Mutual pays $14.28 a day when your insured wife is hospitalized for pregnancy or any consequences thereof.

Intensive Care Coverage of an additional $80 a day ($40 a day if 65 or over) will be paid if a covered member of your family is hospitalized and in Intensive Care for up to 28 days for any one cause during a 6-month period. And if you're in an Intensive Care Unit again for the same or a related cause during the same 6 months you may collect these additional Intensive Care Benefits until a total of all confinements equals 28 days. Of course, if you're in for a different, unrelated reason during the same 6-month period, you can collect $80 a day in addition to your regular benefits for up to 28 days for each different cause of confinement.

These are the exclusions:

1. Sickness for the first 30 days your policy is in force. 2. Pre-existing conditions (health problems that became evident or were medically treated before the effective date of your policy) for one year from the date your policy has been issued. 3. Alcoholism or drug addiction. 4. Pregnancy or any consequence of pregnancy under Individual or One-Parent Family plans.

Even people 65 and older can be covered!

Now you can get the protection you need during the high-risk senior years without any qualifications. Not only will The Doctors Hospital Plan with Intensive Care Benefits accept you regardless of your age, it pays you the same regular daily benefits younger folks get. When you become 65—or if you are over 65 now—you are eligible for $40 a day Intensive Care Benefits, and Senior Citizen rates apply. To find your monthly renewal premium, see rates below.

Your Age	Individual Plan	Husband-Wife Plan	All-Family Plan	One-Parent Plan

Yanks Visit Havana

The weekend visit to Havana by Sens. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., and Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., is widely seen as a possible forerunner to changing relations between the United States and Fidel Castro's Cuba. If this nation desires some consistency in its foreign policy, changes in American attitudes toward Cuba are long overdue.

The trip by Javits and Pell, both members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, was taken in spite of the official displeasure of the State Department. Sec. Of State Henry Kissinger reportedly asked the two on a number of occasions to hold off in the national interest, to avoid embarrassing the State Department, we suppose, but when the proposed trip became public knowledge, the decision to go was made. The purpose of the trip, according to the senators, is to determine whether the time is ready for a reversal of U.S. policy respecting Cuba. A report by a Foreign Relations Committee staff member after a Cuba trip earlier this year suggests that it is.

The question to be asked of American foreign policy-makers from Kissinger on down is, why is detente an appropriate arrangement with the Soviet Union but not with a nation such as Cuba? Certainly a lessening of tensions between all nations is a desirable goal.

The three previous administrations have been deeply committed to anti-Castro Cubans and the hope has always been maintained that somehow through external and internal pressure, Castro would be toppled from power and a government friendlier to the U.S. would take charge. With the lot of the common Cuban vastly improved, however, the new realities force a change in U.S. outlook.

If U.S. policy respecting Cuba remains unchanged, the policy of detente with the Soviet Union runs the risk of appearing as an ill-disguised acknowledgement of power and not something desirable in and of itself. And certainly something that doesn't have to be wasted on weaker nations.

Chambers Scores In Debates

Credit petition candidate Ernie Chambers with an excellent showing thus far in joint appearances with the other gubernatorial candidates.

The state senator from Omaha has been well received by audiences ranging from chamber of commerce delegates in McCook to Grange members in Broken Bow to newspaper editors in Grand Island. That Chambers is extremely adept at getting his point across is no surprise to those who have witnessed his performance during a term and a half in the Legislature. What is important here is that for many people in his audiences outside, it is the first time they have had first-hand exposure to the Chambers style, wit and knowledge of the issues, and the things that concern him.

While GOP candidate Richard Marvel has pretty much stuck to an attack on the Exon record — an expected and understandable posture — during his three appearances with Chambers and Exon has defended that record in his one appearance with the other candidates thus far, Chambers has looked pretty much to the future, explaining what new programs he has in mind for the state "when I am elected."

The complexion of the race hasn't changed much because of the joint appearances. Chambers still is not considered a serious threat.

But he is increasing his influence, if not his vote.

People who have only read about Chambers in the past are discovering that he is a complex man, much deeper than his mistaken image as a black militant who focuses narrowly on racial issues. His concern for equality and dignity is at the core, but his concerns don't stop there.

Having established himself in the Legislature, Chambers is now winning a reputation across the state as a political force with first-rate talents.

NEW YORK — The Ford Administration is now giving "intense, active study" to the proposition that tax relief should be afforded to low-income workers in this curious period of inflation and economic stagnation. If that is not just talk, such a proposal would be a splendid way for President Ford to break out of his single-track economic concentration on cutting the non-military budget.

Ford A Slow Starter On Tax Relief

In the first place, tax relief for the poor is a much worthier idea than the tax relief mostly for the rich that would be provided in the so-called "reform" bill painstakingly prepared by Chairman Wilbur D. Mills and his colleagues of the House and Ways and Means Committee.

The Mills bill may look like a real "reform" in that it would first reduce, then eliminate (by 1979) the oil industry's controversial depletion allowance; but it has another look altogether in that it would also reduce sharply the capital gains taxes of many upper-bracket taxpayers. While committee staff experts contend that the Mills bill would add $400 million to federal Tax revenues, it also appears to be riddled with special-interest provisions, some of which aid only one company or one industry — with the result that liberals on the committee now plan to oppose the whole bill, despite its sections on the oil depletion allowance.

creased buying power for the poor that is ostensibly the goal of low-income tax relief. If the lost revenues would truly be lost — after all, the stimulus of tax relief ought to expand the tax economy — and therefore take revenues to some degree — they would more properly be recovered in increased taxes on the higher brackets.

"What's The Latest From The Economic Summit?"

Thus, Ford and his aides — who ought to be wiser in the ways of Congress than their new executive branch habitat — may have to keep their low-income tax relief proposals well clear from Mills's shady-looking package. The temptation will be to trade the President's endorsement of tax breaks for the rich to gain Mills's backing of a tax break for the poor.

That would be a bad bargain on the part of Ford, who doesn't at this point appear to be a man who examines a horse's teeth too closely before he takes him in trade. Tax relief for the poor — perhaps one of the most often suggested proposals during the recent series of economic conferences sponsored by the White House — could have real economic importance in a time of "stagflation."

Inflation is not, that is to say, the nation's only economic problem, the economy is stagnant, too, and unemployment is high and rising. Tax relief for low-income workers would have the double effect, through their increased purchasing power, of enabling them to pay their food bills and of stimulating the general economy. While that might be somewhat inflationary, it might also begin a needed attack on the stagnation side of the economic problem.

It is strange, however, that the administration also is reported to be considering "consumption" taxes — sales or excise — as a means of offsetting the federal revenues that supposedly would be lost through tax relief for the poor. Such taxes, falling on the low-income consumer with greater effect than upon the affluent, would therefore tend to offset the in-

Income tax relief, moreover, has the virtue of taking quick effect, particularly for low-income persons who pay their taxes through paycheck withholding. Relief can even be made retroactive, which would have the effect of providing substantial refunds next April, if that should be considered useful.

As a matter of fact, the idea of low-bracket tax relief seems so sensible, and has such wide backing in the economic community, that the wonder is that Congress — beset by popular pressures to do something about inflation — has not already acted. The reason seems to be two-fold. Mr. Mills, in whose obedient committee tax legislation must originate, has been preoccupied with his "reform" bill. More important, Congress, as it habitually does and despite all rhetoric to the contrary, has been waiting for the president to tell it what to do.

— Even now it is being argued that Congress cannot possibly pass tax-relief legislation this year because Ford will not be prepared to make his recommendations until late October, when Congress may have started a pre-election recess. After that, many of its members will be "Lame Ducks."

Delay until next year makes no sense, at all. If low-bracket tax relief is a good thing, as it seems to be, the Democratic leaders of Congress are perfectly capable of getting a bill started on their own, and of passing it with or without presidential support. It is, as always, not means nor opportunity that they lack, but will — which is why Congress became and remains any president's second banana.

ON TARGET

By DON WALTON

(Item: Defense Secretary James Schlesinger said Wednesday the United States was not contemplating military action against the oil-producing countries in the Middle East, but rather was seeking a solution to rising oil prices through "amicable discussions.")

Terrific!

But maybe we better get him on record about other parts of the world too.

Mister Secretary, are we planning any military actions against countries in Latin America?

No sir. Not at this time.

How about Europe?

Nothing on the planning boards at this time.

And Asia?

Same situation. I am authorized to say we have no troops currently en route to any nation, either friendly or . . . well, shall we say, to any nation that does not wish us well.

Mister Secretary?

Yes.

Would you really tell us if you did?

Of course not.

Well, back to the Middle East. Sir. How do we plan to use our power to sustain "Amicable discussions?"

An American naval task force is planning a goodwill voyage across the Mediterranean. Smaller craft will journey up the Red Sea. Near Suez, they will engage in target practice for the visual pleasure of nearby inhabitants.

Yes?

The contingent of Marines aboard those ships will disembark along the way to distribute Hershey bars and give slide shows on the effectiveness of the American combat man, with special emphasis on his massive firepower.

And?

SAC is planning a series of low-level flights of American bombers over Middle East cities as a goodwill gesture. They will drop bubble gum over capital cities, along with educational leaflets depicting the recently altered topography of Vietnam.

Anything else?

As an additional symbol of goodwill, we are planning to drop American paratroopers at selected areas to hand-carry to local citizens autographed pictures of Larry Csonka, along with quotations of the latest Wall Street stock prices.

Following the pattern of other educational exchange programs, the paratroopers will move into local homes for a year's study of Middle East conditions, coupled with on-the-job training.

And?

Well, some of our plans have not been fully formulated. Some are still in the discussion stage. But we are planning a fully coordinated and massive, yet delicate, campaign to win the hearts of our friends in the Mideast. Sometimes I think we have been derelict in explaining our point of view to them. We hope to remedy that.

Will all of this be accompanied by actions on the diplomatic front?

Oh, yes. But you should get that from Secretary Kissinger. I think I can tell you we are prepared to offer them everything from statehood to a generation of peace. They are almost certain to want one or the other.

Yes, I suppose. Have we consulted with our allies about all of this, Mister Secretary?

We are certainly planning to send them a transcript of this press conference. They will know everything you do.

Yes. How about the Soviets?

They indicated an interest in joining us in this series of goodwill gestures. But we informed them we are willing to undertake this journey for peace on our own. They did say something about conducting some goodwill thrusts into Western Europe if we go ahead with our plans.

Couldn't that be a little dangerous?

Not at all. The world needs all the goodwill it can get.

But?

It is this government's position that all the nations of the world need to work for peace. A special responsibility falls on the superpowers. Friendly competition with the Soviet Union directed at spreading goodwill throughout the world is in the best interest of us all.

But what if the Soviets insist on imposing their goodwill on Paris or Bonn?

That's all right. We'll take Riyadh and Jidda every time.

WASHINGTON — Inter-Noise 74, an international conference on noise-control engineering, will open in Washington, D.C., on Sept. 30. Many of the pollutants that threaten human health are byproducts of the technological age. The ever-expanding list includes motor vehicle exhaust, asbestos dust, dinityl chloride, and many more. But one major pollutant is as old as civilization itself. It is noise.

Julius Caesar figured in a controversy over noise more than 20 centuries ago. After barring chariots from the streets of Rome by day as a safety measure, he was forced to exclude them by night because the first edict resulted in a great increase of sleep-disturbing clatter over the city's cobblestones.

Things were no better in the Victorian Age. The streets of London in the 1800s were filled with an ear-splitting din caused by the constant hammering of iron horseshoes on the granite pavement. "It was not any such paltry thing as noise," H. B. Creswell wrote in the British journal Architectural Forum. "It was an immensity of sound."

Today's motor vehicles may make less noise than the horse-drawn conveyances of old, but the number and variety of noise-creating devices has vastly in-

JOE LOUIS

Joe Louis knocked out James J. Braddock on June 22, 1937, to become heavyweight champion of the world. He held the title longer than any heavyweight in history — just four months short of 12 years.

Known as the "Brown Bomber," the virtually invincible Louis was a superb fighting machine who could paralyze an opponent with a single punch. He fought and vanquished nearly all comers until age finally overtook him.

His sportsmanship in the ring won him universal respect. And his skill brought him almost $5 million in purses.

Louis, however, was never as capable at handling his money as he was his fist. His wife was marked by one financial crisis after another.

At one time he owed $1 million in back taxes, a debt the Internal Revenue Service finally decided to forget.

Louis was born Joseph Louis Barron in 1914 in a ramshackle cabin near Lafayette, Ala. He was one of eight children. Joe's father died when he was 2, and the family moved to Detroit where his mother remarried.

Louis attended Duffield grammar school in Detroit and was in trade school

Problem Of Noise 2,000 Years Old

creased. Construction and aircraft noise are familiar sounds in any large urban area. And the typical American home is loaded with such high-decibel appliances as dishwashers, blenders, air-conditioners, chain saws and power lawnmowers.

It has long been recognized that prolonged exposure to highly amplified rock music or the roar of jet engines can result in permanent damage to hearing. More recent research indicates that chronic exposure to excessive noise levels can cause many additional ailments, including sore throat, sleeplessness, impairment of sexual drive, and even heart seizure.

Government at all levels has taken an active role in regulating noise over the past several years. Some cities have banned late-night landings and takeoffs of aircraft and shifted flight patterns away from heavily populated areas. Others have cracked down on the indiscriminate use of automobile horns and sirens on emergency vehicles.

At the federal level, the Noise Control Act of 1972 gave the Environmental Protection Agency broad authority to establish noise levels for new motors and engines, and for transportation, construction and electrical equipment. Some members of Congress who opposed the bill nevertheless voted for it because they feared manufacturers would be hamstrung by the growing number of conflicting local laws on noise control.

Another federal agency, the Occupational Health and Safety Administration, has proposed factory noise standards that could cost U.S. industry as much as $3 billion to comply with. The proposed regulation, effective Jan. 1, 1978, would set 85 decibels as the maximum noise level a worker may be subjected to over an eight-hour day. The present standard is 90 decibels. According to Business Week, "The difference in perceivable noise is roughly the difference between an electric blender and an electric shaver at close range."

As expected, many companies have denounced the new standards as unfair and unwarranted. But there may be a silver lining, after all. The business of noise control could become an important industry in its own right.

when he fought his first fight as an amateur at the age of 18. After an impressive string of amateur victories, Louis won the national AAU 175-pound title in St. Louis in April, 1934.

He turned professional in July and won his first fight by knocking out Jack Kracken in the first round. In the next three years, he fought 36 fights, winning 35 of them and 31 by knockout.

His only defeat was at the hands of German champion Max Schmeling who knocked him out. Louis fought Schmeling a second time in 1938 and knocked him in the first round.

After beating Braddock, Louis defended his crown 25 times — a heavyweight record — and retired undefeated in 1940. But the need for money pushed Louis back into the ring in a comeback attempt 27 months later. He quit for good after being knocked out by a rising young fighter named Rocky Marciano. Louis then was 37.

In 71 professional fights, Louis posted a 68-3 record. Fifty-four of his victories were by knockouts. He was knocked out only twice, by Schmeling and Marciano.

Louis was married four times, and his domestic entanglements led to many of his tax problems. At one point, the government collected taxes from his current earnings and seized some of his property to satisfy his debt.

Louis tried his hand in a number of business ventures, most of which went sour, and worked as an entertainer and referee for wrestling matches.

Despite his bad luck, he kept the respect of the public. Louis was one of the most honored fighters of his day. He was awarded the Legion of Merit for his four years of Army service in World War II.

He won the Edward J. Neil award as "fighter of the year" in 1941; the James J. Walker award in 1967 for "long and meritorious service to boxing," and was elected to Boxing's Hall of Fame in 1954.

After a bout with mental illness in mid-1970, fans and friends staged a benefit for the legendary fighter and raised more than $75,000.

Louis bounced back, however, and wound up back in the ring, this time as a referee. In 1974, he refereed one of the year's top heavyweight matches between Joe Frazier, the former champion, and Jerry Quarry.

Poll: Confidence In Nation's Institutions Is Declining

Monday, Sept. 30, 1974 The Lincoln Star 5

By LOUIS HARRIS

Despite the hope that President Nixon's departure from office would revive public confidence in the nation's institutions, the latest Harris Survey indicates that respect has continued to fall off.

Earlier this month, a cross section of 1,527 households was asked:

"As far as people in charge of running (read list) are concerned, would you say you have a great deal of confidence, only some confidence or hardly any confidence at all in them?"

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

☆ By SIDNEY OMARR ☆

Forecast For Monday

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Accent is on solitude. Learning that being alone is not necessarily same as being lonely. Virgo, Pisces persons figure in picture. Work quietly, preferably behind the scenes. Perfect techniques. Reinforce "in your mind."

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): You get what you ask for — don't request more than you can handle. Member of opposite sex is in picture. Money from investments. Business endeavors are activated. You promote and organize. You feel alive, vital and needed.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): You can strike chord of universal appeal. More persons become aware of you, of what you can do, of your capabilities. Aries, Libra may figure in important ways. Accent is on relations with professional superiors.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Lunar aspect is such that travel, learn, grow intellectually and become aware of customs other people follow. Your creative resources are activated — Leo, Aquarius figure prominently. Catch upon calls, correspondence.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Money, security, meaningful relationships tend now to dominate. Aquarian and another Leo figure prominently. Cancer offers a recipe. Tax matters, insurance policies, memberships are all pushing to the forefront of your attention span.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Leave details for another time. Now you should grasp situation as a whole. The bits, pieces will fall into place. Social event could lead to meaningful contact. Gemini, Sagittarius individuals figure in key ways.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Accent is on employment, health, the way you relate to peer group. Avoid the sensational. Maintain steady pace. Keep diet resolutions. Be aware of subtle nuances — read between the lines. Someone is trying to tell you something.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): You are able to get points across. Personal magnetism soars. You are vital, attractive — and member of opposite sex feels you so. Young persons are in picture. Your style appeals and you get new lease on life.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Home, personal environment, ability to make necessary adjustments — these are featured. Taurus, Libra persons are likely to be in picture. You finish task which had been a burden morally and financially.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): You may have right idea but method of working it out needs revision. Take time to correct tactical errors. Deal with Pisces, Virgo persons. Relatives are in picture. Be receptive but stick to basic principles.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Business affairs dominate. You get nothing for nothing. Assume responsibility for actions. Promote and organize — don't delegate duties. Capricorn, Cancer persons could help show you the way.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): You appeal to more persons — tendency now is for others to concede major points. Be a gracious winner. Cycle remains high and your judgment, intuition are on target. Completion of important project is indicated.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you have fine sense of humor, a weight problem and a tendency to try too much at once. Your intellectual curiosity is an asset — you are zodiacal, artistic and November will be one of your most significant months of 1974. Sagittarius, Gemini persons play key roles in your life.

ranked in the lower half of the scale for all institutions tested. Congress has now fallen in public confidence to a new low, despite public appreciation for the way it handled the impeachment proceedings.

But the U.S. Supreme Court, which played a pivotal role in upholding Judge John Sirica's decision that former President Nixon turn over key tapes, has risen seven points in public respect over the past year and has come a long way from the low of 23% recorded back in 1971.

Although the Supreme Court has scored points in public respect, lawyers are down six points in the past year; inspiring confidence from no more than 18% of the public. The law profession has come under heavy fire for the role attorneys played in the Watergate scandals, both through direct criminal involvement and in advising clients to obstruct justice.

The gains in confidence for the military last year after America ended troop involvement in Vietnam have now been reversed.

The news media have also fallen off from the rher euphoric recovery they rode last year due to their role in the Watergate disclosures. TV news has slipped a full 10 point and the press has fallen off five points.

Public confidence in big business has declined in the past year to an all-time low of no more than 21%. This is a floff of eight points just in the past year and is 34 points below the 1966 high of 55%. Business a target of public scorn prty because of inflation and prty because major companies ave neither explained nor justified rising profits to the American people.

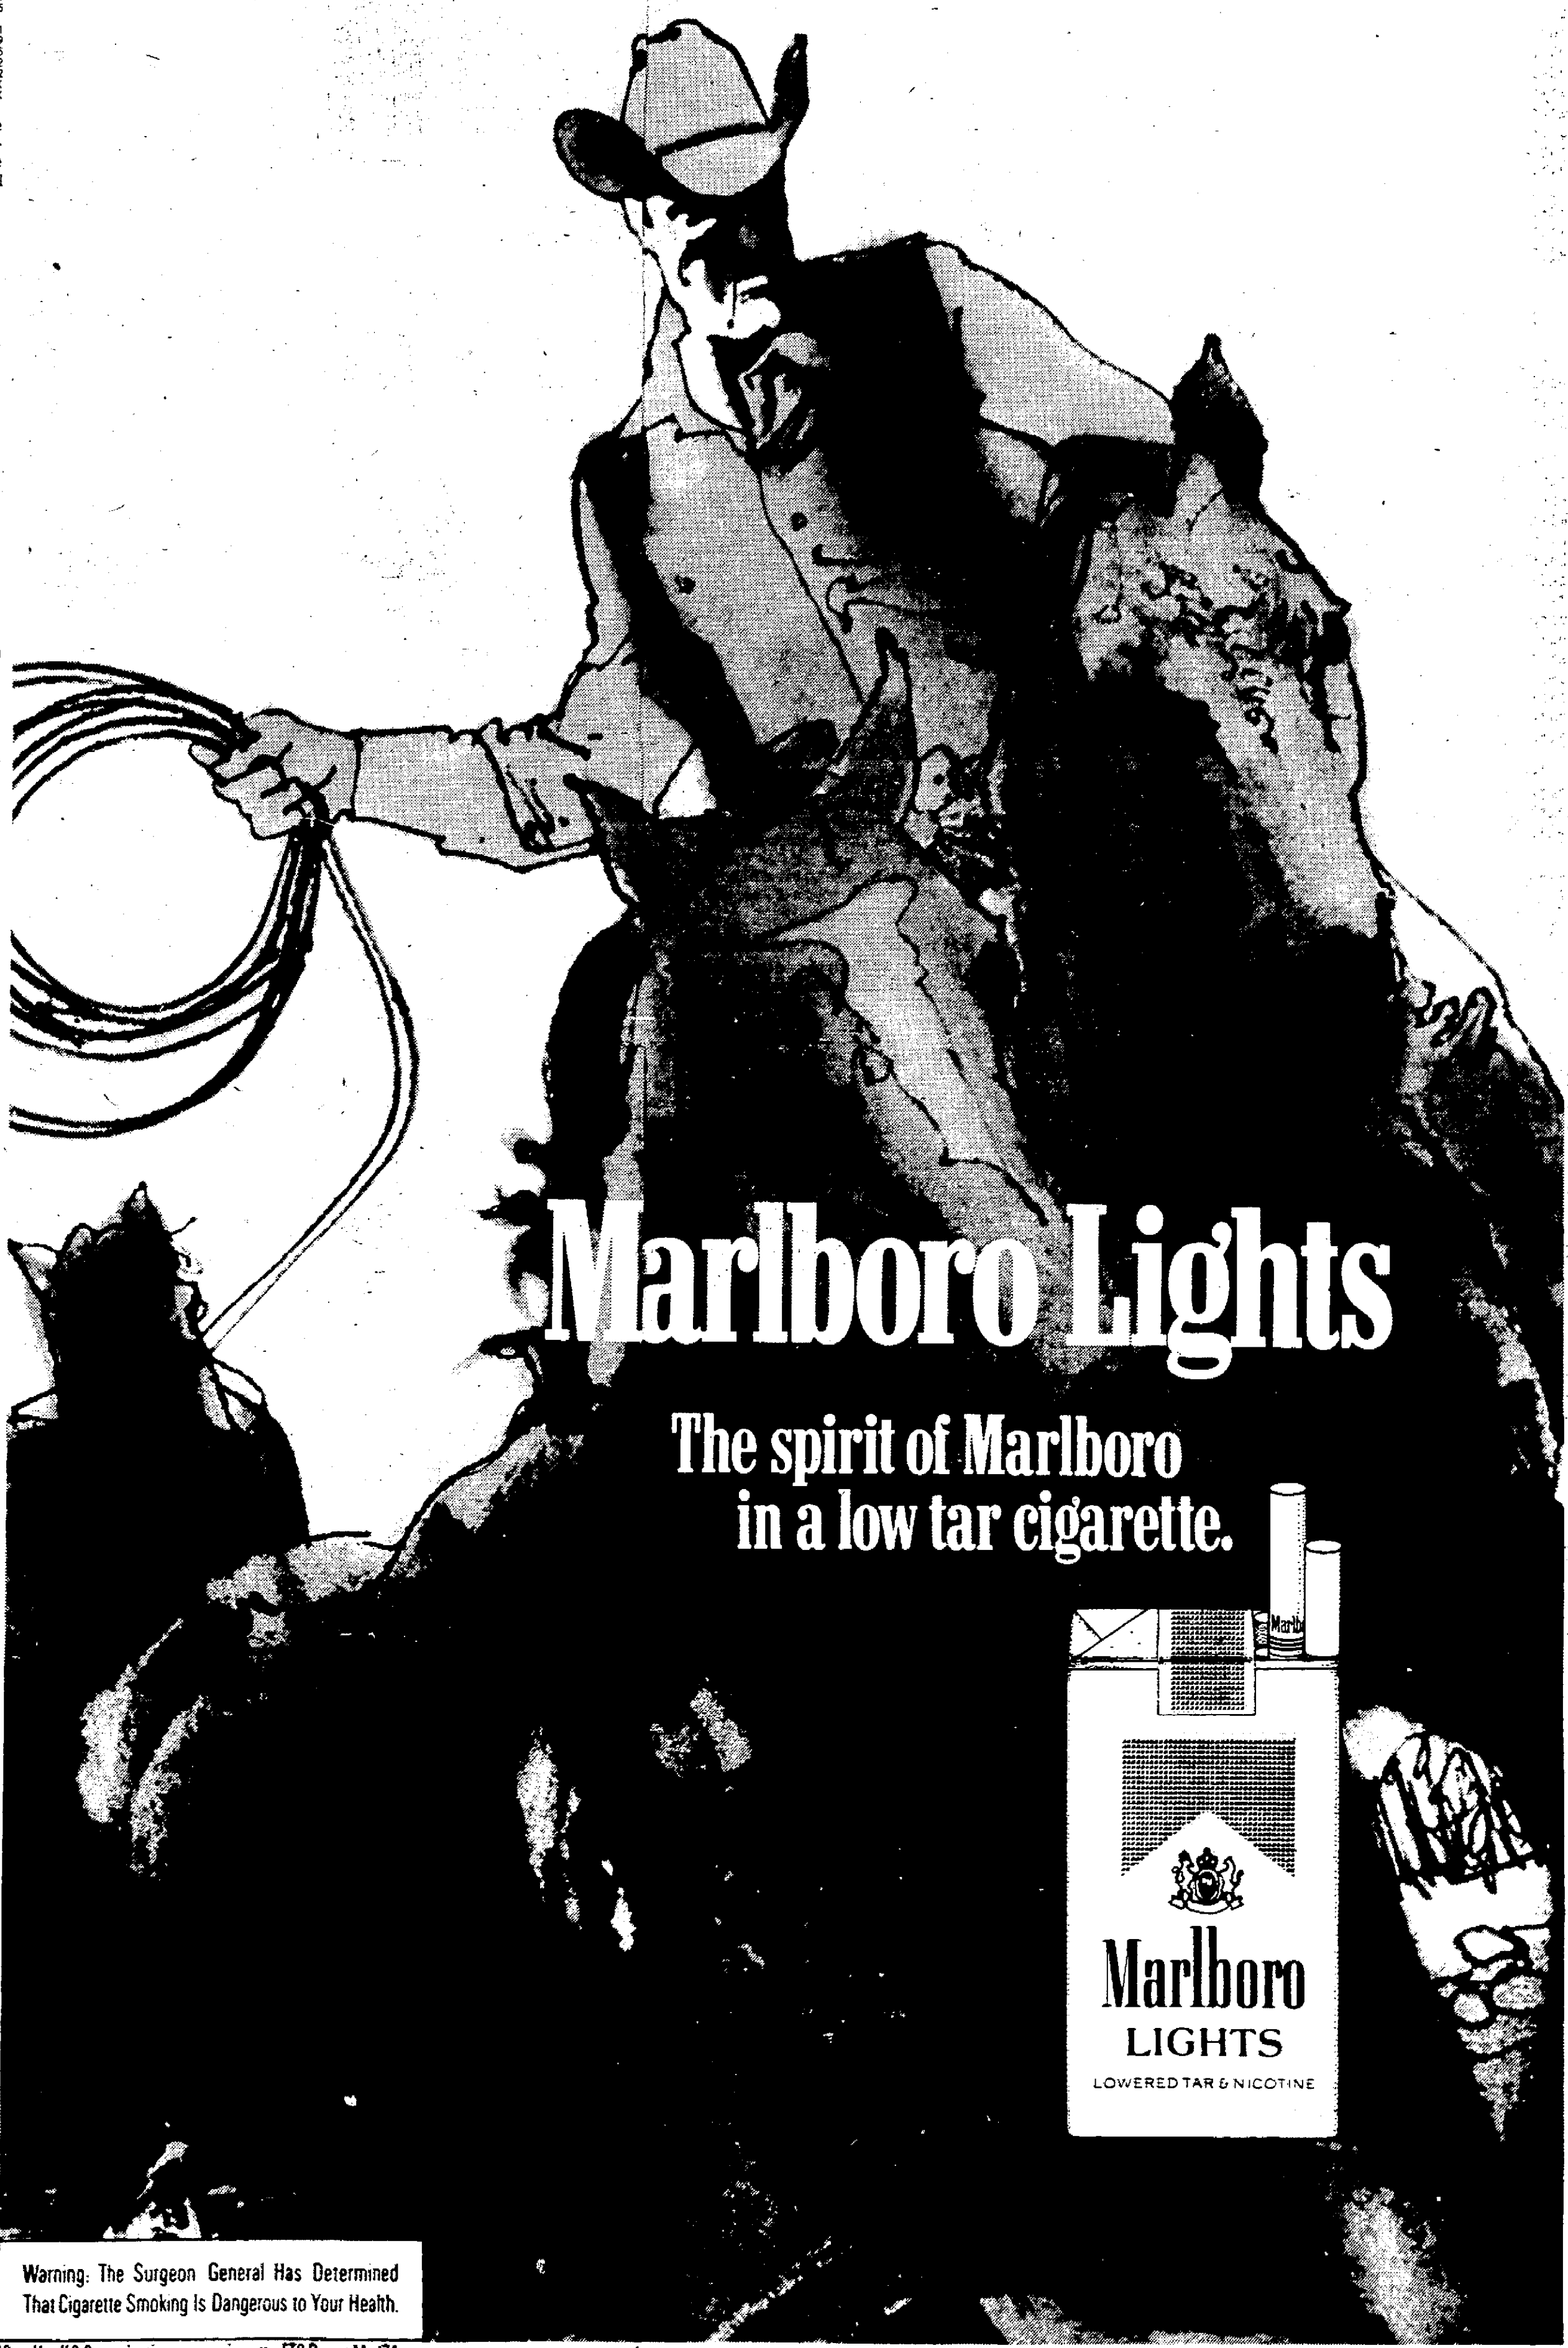

Doctors are still regarded with the highest respect (50%), but they are well off their high mark of 72% in 1966. There is little solace for the medical profession in these latest results, since public confidence in doctors has slipped seven points just in the past 12 months.

The number expressing "a great deal of confidence" in organized religion slipped from 36% to 32% in the past year. While still above the all-time low of 27% in 1971, clergymen have done little to restore public confidence in national institutions during a period of moral and spiritual neglect.

Omaha Livestock Auction Modernized

By DOMINICK COSTELLO
Farm Editor

Market maids dressed in cute uniforms with straw hats, theater style seats, an all-new electronic information board that figures out the weight and number of cattle being sold and a simplified billing system have revolutionized the livestock auction market in Omaha.

The market maids will bring your coffee, sandwiches and phone messages, or fetch a new market number so you don't miss a chance on the particular load of cattle you want to buy.

The seats are comfortable and a vast improvement on the normal wood benches. Seating capacity exceeds 1,000 and is filled to overflowing.

It is all a part of the overall improvement program underway at the Omaha stockyards since the Kay Corp. took over the stockyards in the spring of 1973.

New People Involved
New people like Bob Bachman are involved in the stockyard operation. Bob has operated feedlots, farmed and run his own auction, so he is knowledgeable about all facets of the auction business.

A new advertising program aimed at getting more people in western cattle-exporting states to sell their feeder cattle in Omaha at the weekly Friday auction seems to be paying off.

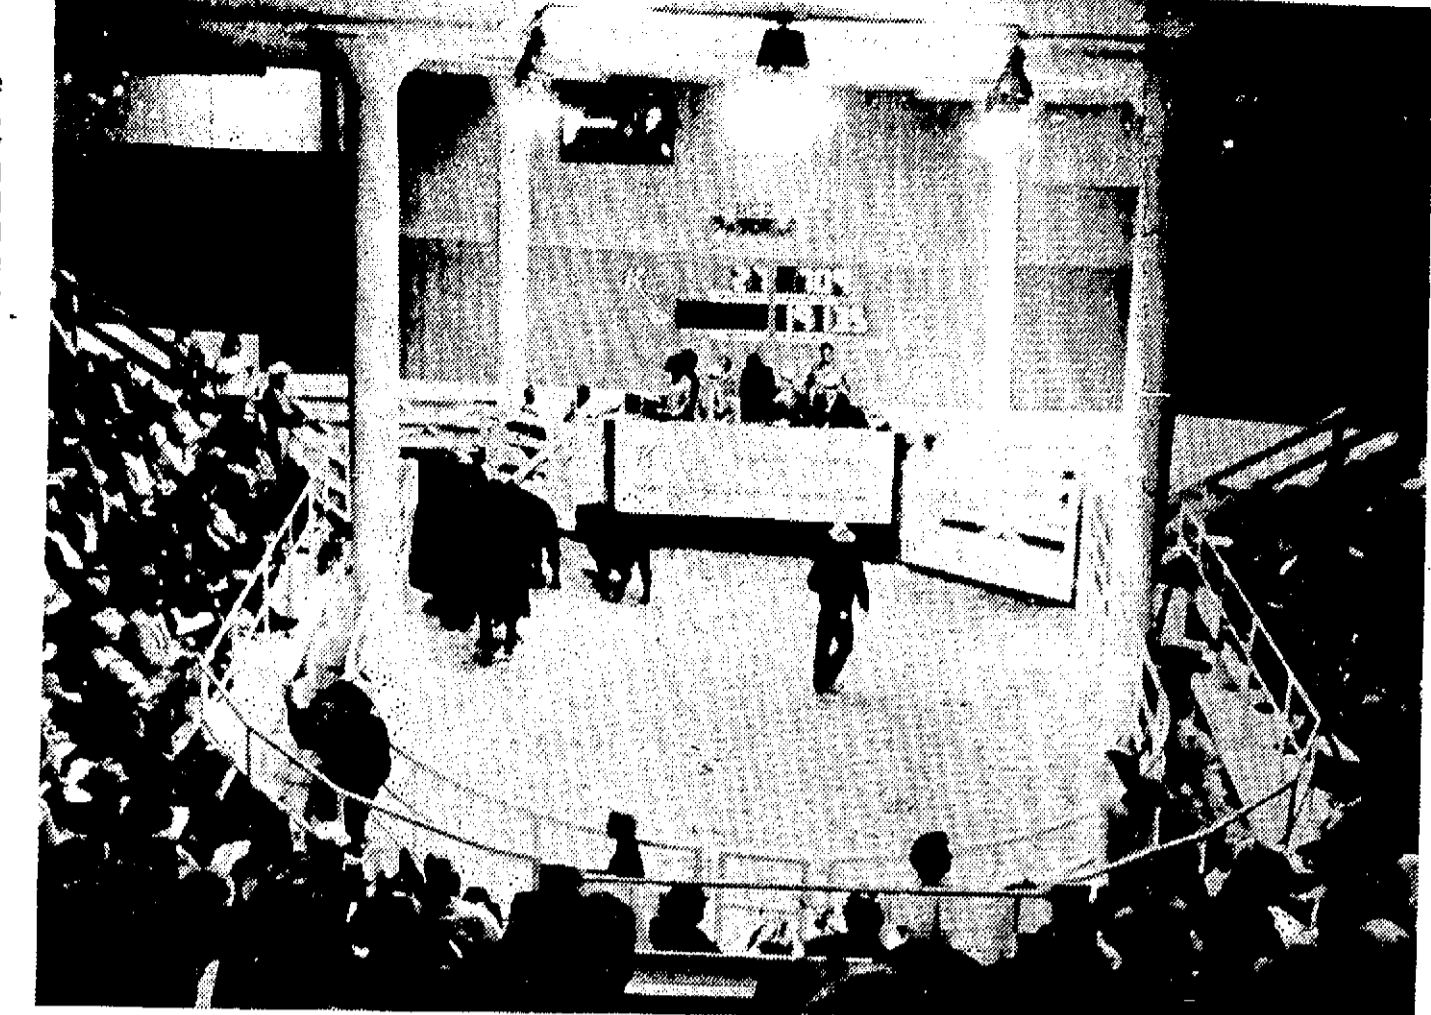

Personal telephone contacts with thousands of cattle feeders have brought increasing numbers of them to Omaha seeking top quality feeder cattle this fall. Kay officials hope this will continue.

A computer matches lots of cattle being shipped to Omaha from western ranches with needs of feeders in eastern states. A personal telephone call to feeders seeking the kind of cattle that will be in Omaha on a specific date adds a human element that is vital when dealing with farmers.

Unit Trains Planned

Additionally the Kay company is trying to line up some trains of feeder cattle from Montana, Wyoming and Utah. Two seem certain to materialize, but the problems are many.

Railroads haven't built new cattle cars for many years, and many of those still in existence are in poor condition. Feedyards have to be checked out and feed supplies have to be accumulated so cattle can be unloaded, fed, rested and returned to the train. A special car for drovers also has to be found and included in the train.

AUCTION RING... at Omaha stockyards is newly remodeled.

Bachman said, "Rail shipments are increasing this year. We had one 10-car shipment and many smaller ones."

Some small shipments are unloaded at Valley and trucked to Omaha, but larger shipments are being switched to the stockyards on a special track by a special train crew paid for by the stockyards.

May Bring More

Bachman and Lou Enos of the Kay company feel the increase in feeder cattle moving through the Omaha yards can lead to more fat cattle coming back to Omaha for marketing.

"We are going to follow these cattle up and see how they do in the feedlots. We will then know the reputation of good feeder cattle. Our interest in the welfare of the feeder should bring some of these cattle back to Omaha for marketing," Enos said.

Complaints by farmers and truckers are sought on forms and studied by Kay officials who are making changes in the yard operation based on the forms.

Changes Made

Officials spent many evenings interviewing farmers and truckers who haul cattle into the yards at night. There have been some changes.

The new arena for auctions was added, as well as two new auctioneers, Dick Kane of Wisner and Kenneth Webster of Jackson, Minn., who are among the nation's best auctioneers. New unloading chutes, a lounge for ranchers' wives who may not want to sit through the auction and better cattle equipment were also installed.

Plans for additional marketing facilities for farmers are underway. "We definitely will have a feeder pig market, but don't have a set date yet. Hopefully, we will be ready to go around the first of the year. Bred cow auctions are also likely to be a feature of special sales this fall and winter," Bachman said.

Excitement, Enthusiasm

Perhaps more important than the physical improvements to the stockyards is the attitude of the employees. There is an air of excitement and enthusiasm that hasn't been present in any stockyards for many years.

"It is only one way we can add that is up. It is really on a winning team. My personal seventh heaven," Bachman said.

Spotlight on Agriculture

By DOMINICK COSTELLO
Farm Editor

Every egg you have eaten since April cost someone more to produce than he got for it. The same is probably true of much of the beef you ate during the last year and of some of the pork.

Very few farm families still produce eggs, and most chickens and eggs are actually produced by big conglomerate farming operations.

Tyson Foods of Springdale, Ark., is said to have lost nearly $2 million in the last nine months with no end in site. Other large poultry companies have been experiencing the same problem.

Unlike the family farmer who used to be able to eat his egg factory if the housewife didn't want his product, the conglomerate has to take its lumps.

Some have drowned hundreds of thousands of birds and at least one gave away its birds to housewives who wanted them for stewing.

I wonder how many women in Lincoln could convert a live chicken into chow mein or a roasting hen. I would bet that a good percentage could, because many Lincolinites came from the farm, but in Chicago or New York City they wouldn't know a chicken if they saw one.

A study by the Food and Agricultural Organization of the United Nations indicates one major reason for food shortages in many of the developing countries is lack of research.

The report indicated prosperous countries were spending up to five times as much as the developing countries.

India has spent a lot of money on developing its very own atomic bomb but little on agriculture. The new varieties of rice and wheat they now use came primarily from research projects being conducted in Mexico and the Philippines.

The question of whether we should provide food aid to nations that build bombs instead of producing food is sure to be a hot one both on the farm and in the city.

The problem is the folks building the bombs and the folks that are starving ain't the same folks.

Farmer find speculators to be nasty people. It is the speculator who buys things cheap and sells them high, making a profit on the product — grain, propane or whatever it may be — without producing it.

To a farmer profit-making by a nonproducer seems to be immoral, if now downright crooked.

Farmers do realize speculators sometimes lose money, but they don't have the same kind of sympathy for the speculator that they would have for a neighbor whose crop was hailed out.

Grain traders defend the speculator as a necessary part of the grain marketing structure because the speculator takes much of the risk out of the grain trade for the big grain companies and even the country elevator.

Farmers argue that the speculator puts risk into the market by his manipulations.

Grain traders have claimed few people understand how the grain market works, so they shouldn't be regulated.

Farmers argue that anything that darn complicated ought to be simplified so folks can understand it.

The emotional factors involved don't help the two groups reach an understanding. Farmers are talking about their grocery money and the grain traders, about their companies profit.

The new regulations may not make the grain trade much simpler, but overall they do improve the situation some.

If you visit the West Coast please don't bring back any hitchhikers... particularly the oat cyst nematode which could cause major problems to our wheat, barley and rye crops, as well as the oat crop.

Apparently it has been in Oregon for several years. It is a major pest in some 15 countries. We don't need any new bugs in Nebraska to add to our farmers' problems.

Some entomologist will undoubtedly write to tell me that a nematode isn't a bug. I know that. It is a pest whatever you call it.

People-To-People Tour Canceled

The People-to-People Tour slated to South America for Nov. 5 has been canceled due to disastrous conditions many Nebraska farmers faced during the summer, according to Clyde Noyes, retired director of international programs for the University of Nebraska-Lincoln. Originally, a group of Nebraska farmers and ranchers, under the auspices of the People-to-People Inc., a national non-profit organization to seek improved relations between Americans and other countries, were scheduled to visit agricultural stations and ranches in Peru, Ecuador and Colombia.

Weekly Grain Report

By DOMINICK COSTELLO
Farm Editor

As promised last week, a good frost in Illinois and Indiana increased soybean prices and added to the already high prices of corn and feed grains.

Farmers do seem to be making better use of corn silage than they did in past years, mostly because that is all they have from their crop. Perhaps the end product, meat, will not be in as short supply as first thought.

Record numbers of cattle are coming to market. Some are short-fed cattle and some have had no grain at all. Many feeders will be trying to finish cattle to market weight with a minimum of grain in the feedlot.

Pork and poultry supplies will definitely tighten up as the year continues with high grain prices and low, or at least comparatively low, livestock prices.

The fall harvest is now underway in the corn-soybean-milo belt of the Midwest. Yield figures will become much more real in the grain bin than in government reports.

Malcolm — The growing list of alleged cattle mutilations in Nebraska was added to by a Saturday night incident eight miles northwest of Malcolm — and predatory animals have been ruled out as the cause.

A 700-pound black Angus steer was found dead in a ditch alongside a Seward County road about 10 a.m. Sunday, gutted and with its throat slit. No meat had been taken. A few feet away lay two dead chickens.

In addition, a flammable liquid — probably fuel oil, according to authorities — had been poured over the bodies and ignited. The fire scorched about 250 feet of the ditch alongside the road, the Seward County sheriff's office reported.

HUDKINS... examines area where slain steer was burned.

However, an autopsy performed by University of Nebraska-Lincoln veterinarians showed the steer died from a bullet wound in the forehead caused by a small-caliber weapon.

The autopsy also showed that no internal or sexual organs of the animal were missing, according to Dr. Oliver Grace at UNL. He said it was the first cattle mutilation case that an autopsy had been performed on in which the possibility of death from disease and/or mutilation by predators had been ruled out.

Larry Hudkins, who owned the animal, said the killing must have occurred after 7 p.m. Saturday. An area resident was working in the pasture less than 300 feet from the site at that time, he said.

"I hate to say it, but it was set up in a sort of ritualistic manner. It's really weird," he said of the killing.

Association and a former Future Farmers of America Star Farmer of Nebraska, Hudkins said he is offering a $500 reward for information about the mutilation.

He noted that the steer had been totally black, as cattle in almost all other mutilation incidents have been. There were about 75 head of cattle in the pasture the dead Angus was chosen from.

"That way," he explained, "if it's a bunch of kids looking for kicks, maybe the money will inspire them to talk."

Hudkins said he did not know if the incident was linked with the sighting earlier this month of an apparently unnumbered helicopter about three miles away. It was reported that a white helicopter had landed in a farmyard, then had taken off when the farmer tried to investigate.

He emphasized that several persons must have been involved, "since it took four of us to lift (the carcass) into the truck" for shipping to the university.

The immediate past president of the Lancaster County Feeders

However, both Hudkins and Seward County Deputy Sheriff Roger Anderson refused to speculate on what prompted the killing. The Nebraska State Patrol also is investigating the incident.

Truckers' Chief Says Most Against Striking

Council Bluffs, Iowa (UPI) — The president of the Independent Owners and Operators Association of Eastern Nebraska and Western Iowa said Sunday most members of his organization would prefer to keep their trucks on the road than strike.

Willie Hollesen, rural Council Bluffs, said truckers were discussing the possibility of a strike during meetings across the country.

Hollesen said as far as his organization is concerned, "We're going to stand by and wait a couple of weeks to see what the rest of the country will do."

failure of the federal government to follow through on prior trucker demands.

Hollesen said his association represents between 60 and 70% of the independent truckers in the Eastern Nebraska-Western Iowa area.

"I don't know if all the members agree with me about waiting, and I won't know until I call a meeting," Hollesen said. "I don't know when that will be, but I don't intend to call one for a while."

"We're not at all for a strike," Hollesen said. "Before we went out, but this time we're going to hold out. We might even end up being the last organization to go for a strike."

Hollesen said truckers continue to be plagued by higher operating costs and the alleged

Belz Named Leader Of Teachers' Group

Paul Belz

Paul Belz has been named executive secretary of the Nebraska State Education Association. He succeeds John Lynch, who declined reappointment to the top teacher-organization post last April.

The appointment of Belz was announced by the NSEA Board of Directors following a special Saturday meeting in Lincoln. It marked the end of a nationwide search of several months for a successor to Lynch.

Belz joined the NSEA staff 10 years ago as the association's only salary consultant. He has also worked in the areas of research, teacher welfare; and teacher rights and responsibilities. He later became director of field service, and was named acting executive secretary by the board on August 1.

The 50-year-old Belz is a native of Hastings. He holds degrees from Hastings College and Kearney State College, and has completed additional graduate work at the University of Nebraska and the University of Washington.

His all-Nebraska educational career includes nine years as a classroom teacher in Stapleton; five years as Logan County superintendent; and four years as a staff member with the State Department of Education.

Belz becomes the NSEA's sixth executive secretary. Lynch, whose 15-year career as association leader began in 1959, recently returned to Lincoln following major back surgery in Minneapolis.

Lynch is expected to assume part-time consultative duties with the NSEA about January 1. Belz and his wife Alice live at 3900 N. 66th. Their oldest

Catholics Plan Field Mass

Constance (AP) — A field mass Oct. 6 at 2:30 p.m. near Constance is expected to draw more than 1,200 Catholics to celebrate the 1974 Holy Year proclaimed by the Roman Catholic Church.

The Archdiocese of Omaha said worshippers would represent 15 northeast Nebraska parishes of the Rural North Central Deanery.

A spokesman said the altar will be on a haystack mover platform to demonstrate that the Mass offering comes from persons who make their living off the land.

Lynch: Junk Plans For 16 Dams

Omaha (UPI) — Second District Democratic congressional candidate Dan Lynch said Sunday four key dams of the some 20 proposed for the Papio Watershed Program should be completed and the rest scrapped.

Lynch said the project originated as a flood control measure under the individual sponsorship of the separate counties involved to solve a "serious problem."

"We now have a pie-in-the-sky natural resources district with separate taxing powers and with the right of eminent domain," Lynch said. "This was created and is being utilized as a means to circumvent the will of the residents of Washington County and their elected officials, for the purpose of building four dams."

In addition, Lynch said the cost of the program has "changed drastically."

"The end result of the NRD program will be to take over 14,000 acres of food production land out of production and off the tax rolls," Lynch said, "and to do so at a cost which is, by the most favorable estimate, $68 million higher than originally budgeted."

The Douglas County board chairman replied in the Omaha World-Herald to a previous editorial which Lynch said accused him of performing a "flip flop" on the issue.

Lynch recently turned against the program in support of action by a group of residents seeking to prevent the government from acquiring the farmland in question.

Lynch said the key dams providing flood protection to the Omaha area and to the other downstream communities should be completed.

Fences' Party Detective Trap

New York (UPI) — Dozens of suspects accused of selling stolen property ranging from brassieres to a cardiograph machine were under arrest Sunday after being rounded up at "party" staged by undercover detectives wearing black velvet tuxedos and posing as taxi driver escorts.

The arrests climaxed a six-month investigation during which the Queens Borough storefront operation bought, or "fenced," more than $700,000 worth of stolen merchandise.

Edwin T. Dreher, chief of Queens detectives, said he expected up to 180 persons would eventually be arrested and that stolen property would be returned to 1,400 people.

42 Busted

A total of 50 persons — 42 of them seized at the phony party Saturday night — were in custody Sunday, charged mostly with possession of stolen property.

Police began collecting the stolen goods last April 1, when they opened up their fencing operation.

Richard Ledda, a bearded undercover agent who posed as the pawnbroker, said the operation started slowly but "then it just mushroomed."

Began To Believe It

"It was just a great rapport with them," he said.

"Sometimes I was really convinced myself I was a fence."

Police decided over the weekend to climax the undercover operation by rounding up as many suspects as possible at one location to avoid violence. They sent out invitations by letter, phone and word of mouth to a party at an abandoned Queens warehouse.

The guests were told, "There would be a lot of girls and a lot of booze and it would all be free," Ledda said.

Detectives posing as cab drivers picked up the guests at the Astoria store and drove them to the warehouse, whose location was not disclosed by police.

Ledda, who wore a black velvet tuxedo, calmly ushered guests into their taxis and said, "This is my big day. I'm being moved up. Mr. Big is going to be there so I have to look nice."

Complete Shock

Lt. Ronald Fenrich said when police arrested the guests as they arrived at the warehouse, there was "complete shock. They were paralyzed."

Among the stolen items bought by the undercover police were automobiles, handguns and rifles, 700 bras, a cardiograph machine, televisions, stereos, office equipment and jewelry.

Sproing, Sproing, Sproing

One New York City youth demonstrates his bouncing skill while others wait their turn on the sidelines. Inventiveness was the key to a day of fun for these youngsters on Manhattan's lower East Side. Putting their ingenuity to work, they came up with this improvised trampoline made of two discarded mattresses, part of a police barricade, an empty milk crate and two auto seats.

Operating Room Will Be Rescued

CHICAGO (AP) — One of the most dramatic operating rooms of World War II — the officers' ward and its mess table of the U.S.S. Silverdies — is being rescued from the scrap heap along with the historic submarine for the nation's Bicentennial.

It was aboard the Silverdies, submerged off the coast of Rabaul in Japanese waters, that a young pharmacist's mate performed an emergency appendectomy in 1942. The surgery was given wide publicity and fascinated a wartime nation. It later was depicted in the movie, "Destination Tokyo."

The government turned the U.S.S. Silverdies over to The Combined Great Lakes Navy Association last year. The diesel powered sub had been used as a training vessel in Lake Michigan for naval reserves before being decommissioned in June 1969.

"We saved her from the scrap heap," said Jack Reardon, executive vice president of the nonprofit association which is dedicated to making a lakefront historic center with a Navy museum.

"We have unfrozen the periscope of Silverdies, are starting to rewire her and overhaul her diesels," he said. "The Navy has the sub's two propellers and deck gun in storage and will give them to us. When we get her ready we don't plan any nostalgic dive — the sea valves probably couldn't take it. "Ye just want her working good enough to sail on the surface."

"We hope to have her seaworthy in time to join the Bicentennial Fleet in 1976," said John Gay, 27, one of nearly 40 volunteers refurbishing the sub.

Gay, who served on a diesel sub similar to Silverdies in the late 1960s, said plans are being made to have a Bicentennial Fleet sail off the Atlantic Coast from Washington D.C., to Philadelphia in the summer of 1976. He said it will be made up of various vessels depicting periods of U. S. Navy history.

Most of the original equipment remains aboard Silverdies, which is moored off the Chicago lakefront near the Navy Armory.

This includes the mess table on which Tom Moore, now a pharmacist at Grand Junction, Colo., successfully performed the emergency appendectomy with instruments from a first aid kit to save the life of George Platter, another enlisted man.

Silverdies' first commander, Creed Burlingame — now a retired rear admiral in Mount Pleasant, S.C. — attended ceremonies when the old sub was allocated to the Great Lakes organization. He said she is credited with the third highest record for number of ships sunk in World War II — 23, all over 1,000 tons.

IMF Director Asks For International Cooperation

WASHINGTON (AP) — The director of the International Monetary Fund appealed to world governments Sunday for unprecedented cooperation to solve the world's deepening economic and financial problems.

"The world needs effective international cooperation, perhaps more than ever before," said Managing Director Johannes Witteveen at a news conference on the eve of the IMF's 29th annual meeting here.

President Ford is expected to welcome the delegates at the opening session on Monday. The meeting, which will continue through Friday, will be held jointly with the annual meeting of the World Bank.

Also on Sunday, financial leaders of 10 major industrial nations, including the United States, agreed to a five-year renewal of a $6 billion lending program to the IMF. The fund has not been used in recent years because it required repayment in gold. This provision is being amended.

Witteveen said the IMF's new oil facility program to help nations meet serious balance of payments problems probably will exhaust all the funds in the program this year.

He said the international organization so far has loaned more than $500 million to 18 nations since the program started in mid-year. He said most if not all of the some $3 billion in the oil facility program will be committed by the end of the year.

He said a major subject for discussion at the conference here will be how to meet the needs of nations in serious payments difficulty next year.

The 126-member IMF and the bank will attempt to find ways of meeting the financial needs of both developed and underdeveloped nations, brought on by the high cost of world oil.

The need for new financing of oil imports has become critical for some nations, and a few could face bankruptcy if additional help is not forthcoming.

The IMF said in its annual report two weeks ago that the world faces a grave financial crisis because of the combined impact of rampant worldwide inflation and a fourfold increase in world oil prices.

Witteveen said Sunday that the question of what happens next year will be a major subject of discussion at the week-long conference here.

But it was apparent that major decisions on what to do about world oil prices and financial problems will be made at smaller meetings of influential nations, such as the meeting of officials of the United States, France, Great Britain, Germany and Japan at the U.S. State Department Sunday.

Witteveen said financial catastrophe can be avoided but that "the world needs effective international cooperation, perhaps more than ever before."

The money for the oil facility — which was put into effect in midyear — was borrowed from oil producing nations by the IMF and loaned to nations like Italy, which need the money to pay for oil imports.

Minerals, Materials Crisis Impending—Kyl

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The United States is heading into a minerals and materials crisis that will make the fuel crisis look like a Sunday school picnic, a Ford administration official says.

John Kyl, assistant secretary of the interior, said in an interview Saturday night with The Associated Press: "We'll have a crisis in materials within five years."

Kyl addressed the Indiana Republican Editorial Association. He returned to Washington on Sunday.

"If you list the basic minerals we use regularly, a number of them we have to import 100%," Kyl said. "Not only minerals, but also forest and agricultural products."

Kyl said America's mining industry has not developed necessary technology and added that the nation also needs to make some basic decisions on conservation matters.

"This country can no longer afford the luxury of planned obsolescence," Kyl said. Asked if he included automobiles, he replied, "anything."

"We've got to quit treating minerals and timber as disposable items. We've got to reclaim them again and again."

"But in order to do that, you have to have more research. You have to change some laws. In fact, you probably have to have economic incentive for reclaiming instead of looking for new materials."

Kyl, a former congressman from Iowa, called for better research into recovery of petroleum and coal.

"We get about one-half the coal out of the average mine, and about one-third of the oil out of the average well," he said. "Some waste piles at copper mines yield more copper than some new mines."

Kyl said the country needs better materials, less corrosive materials, "things that last longer."

"We are the world's biggest importer of timber," Kyl said. "And we are five million acres behind in reforestation. But it is hard to interest Congress in long-term investing in such projects. When you talk about planting forests you are talking about 65 to 70 years to maturity."

Kyl said part of the problem with raw materials from abroad is that the United States is not only consuming ever-increasing amounts, but "the rest of the world is catching up."

He said demand from developing countries for ores and materials will be a part of the crisis he predicts.

Ford Telegram On Front Page

The telegram was in response to one from Podgorny congratulating Ford on assuming the U.S. presidency.

So we'll be very picky about how your clothes are cleaned.

We'll do the big things like making your clothes bright with that like-new feel. Removing deep-down, unseen dirt. Reshaping garments properly. And removing spots and stains.

And we'll do the little things like replacing missing or broken buttons, resewing split seams, unsticking sticky zippers, rolling lapels, and making linings wrinkle-free.

The fact is, we're picky enough to see that you look your very best.

And the better you look, the better we look.

Come see us now.

'Buying cheap furniture is like cheating at solitaire. Nobody gets it but the guy who is playing the game.'

Carefully Choose That 'Shrine' Of The Living Room

By GRACIA McANDREW
Star Staff Writer

You're passing a furniture store when a sofa in the display window catches your eye. It's just what you have been looking for — length is perfect, the colors are exactly what you wanted, the style will fit beautifully with your decor... and the sale tag tells you that the price is right.

You need a new sofa. You could just go in and buy it.

But wait a minute! You did the correct thing by selecting a sofa which can be coordinated well with other items and colors in your home, because the sofa — often referred to as "the shrine of the home" — actually is the focal point of every living room, said a local furniture factory representative.

However, there are a few other things to be considered, such as framework and spring construction and fabric tailoring and durability. "The framework is just as important to a sofa as the foundation is to a house," said the representative. "It should be constructed of a hard wood such as ash, magnolia or oak."

Also, there are several manufacturer shortcuts you should be aware of which could affect the quality of the frame.

Among them are the omission of cross-braces, the limited use of corner blocks and the use of nails or large staples rather than dowels, all of which determine the strength of the frame, the representative said.

And to reduce the chances of expanding, contracting and warping, the frame should be kiln dried to make it less susceptible to moisture, he continued.

"You can put a fancy cover on a low-grade frame, but in a short time you won't have much," he explained.

"The next important thing is spring construction," he said. "Generally, there are two kinds — the coil spring and the zigger or 'can't sag' wire."

For the purposes of comfort and durability, the coil spring construction is preferred and "it has a tendency to prolong the life of the cushions."

"You can tell coil spring construction by pushing on the front platform," he added. "There usually will be a spring edge, rather than a stiff rail."

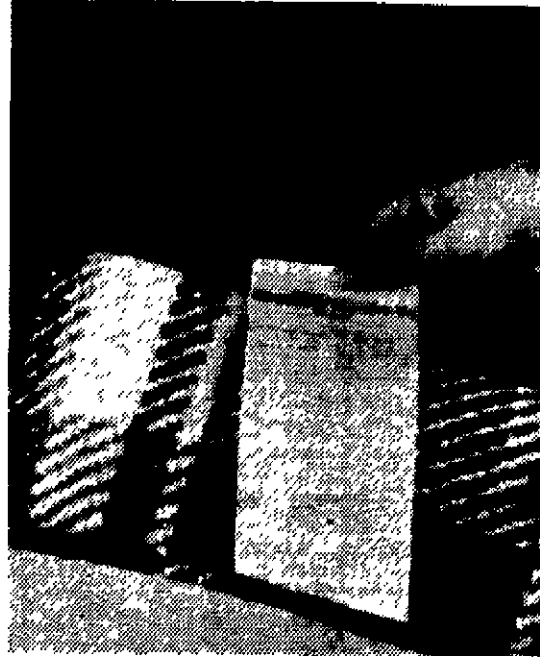

"If you buy a sofa with a zigger wire construction, you should be extremely careful. It is alright if it is installed properly, but it usually goes with cheaper construction."

"The zigger wire is stretched tight into position, so it is always working against the frame," he pointed out. "Usually with a zigger wire there is a hard front rail or edge with no yield to it."

"One good way to test a good spring job is to sit on the edge of the sofa and if you lean toward the arm, it is a cheap spring construction."

But, when the under-construction is hidden beneath upholstery, padding and cushions, how can one determine its quality?

"The customer is completely at the mercy of the person who is selling the item," the representative explained. "You just have to ask questions. Customers just don't go into detail enough when they're asking questions."

The fabric content is always listed on the sofa label. Be sure to read it, the experts say.

"If you are unsure and you don't know what you should about making selection, you should at least know the dealer or merchant."

In selecting upholstery, it was noted that nylon and herculon, both synthetics, are the most durable.

"Vinyls should be fabric backed, so ask to see a sample," the representative said. "And you should test it for flexibility and stretchability. A good vinyl will have a good one-way stretch."

Explaining that different companies have different grading systems, the representative pointed out that "a cover which has a high grade is not necessarily a long-wear cover."

"For example a brocade or matalasse fabric may be at the top of the grade list, but that doesn't mean they will outwear a lower grade fabric."

Likewise, "a high-grade cotton or rayon, which may be expensive, in many cases will not outwear a lower-grade nylon or herculon," he added.

To find out the fabric content of a particular fabric, one can read the labels, which by law are to be attached, he continued, "but the only way to really know is to ask the person helping you."

"If you can't get an answer or if you get an evasive answer, you had better look elsewhere."

"Also, one sure way to find out the quality of a fabric is to ask to see the cover sample, where all the contents will be listed."

"There is an old saying," he added, "nobody ever built anything that somebody else couldn't build worse and sell it for less."

"Just remember that nobody ever gave anything away. A store has to have a margin of profit to stay in business."

"And given the fact that manufacturer costs, transportation costs and profit markups in retail stores are pretty much the same all over, if you buy a cheap sofa, that is just what you get," he said.

"It pays to pay a little more," he continued. "Shop the ads and go out and look at the piece of furniture."

"There are no shortcuts. Buying cheap furniture is like cheating at solitaire. Nobody gets it but the guy who is playing the game," he concluded.

A stiff rail along the edge of the front platform will not give when pressure is applied. This type of spring construction means more wear-and-tear on the cushions and less comfort.

A Loving Wife Helped Reconditioned Exhibitionist

DEAR ABBY: I read the letter from "Scared," the 19-year-old girl who just found out that her steady boyfriend had been arrested several times for indecent exposure.

Thank you for your compassionate and understanding attitude. You said, "It's an illness. He needs therapy." Abby, you are so right.

I am a 28-year-old man who was cursed with that illness for about 15 years. It's called "exhibitionism." And it's as difficult to control as alcoholism. In plain language, it's an uncontrollable urge to expose oneself.

I was normal in all other respects and couldn't understand this fierce urge I seemed powerless to control. I won't go into the humiliation, problems with the law and tremendous guilt feelings I suffered until I finally found a psychologist who knew how to treat this illness. He used the "conditioning" technique, and it cured me.

I have been married for five years to a woman who stood by me through the worst. She gave me the courage to seek professional help, and the strength to stick with the treatment. Had it not been for her, I could not be signing myself...

EX-HIBITIONIST P.S. Abby, because I trust you, and know that you will not betray that trust, I am signing my real name and address. If you print my letter, please don't divulge my name or location. Although I am cured, and, God willing, will never regress, I am still ashamed of my past.

DEAR EX: Because I feel that an unenlightened society has misunderstood this problem for years I shall print your letter. Perhaps in an effort not to seem self-serving, you failed to mention an important fact: Exhibitionists are usually gentle, non-violent people, and the chances of their attacking anyone are very, very remote. But in fairness to society, exhibitionists cannot be allowed to go about traumatizing children and shocking adults.

Those who sincerely wish to overcome their problem have an excellent chance of being helped, either by psychotherapy or conditioned reflex therapy. I urge those who are still fighting this battle to seek out such help.

DEAR ABBY: "Stumped Divorcee" didn't know how to say "no" to a man. (She said, "If I had never been married, I could say I was saving myself for marriage, but a divorcee can't say that.")

I have a solution for her: I was a divorcee for ten years. I never said "no" to a man because I didn't want him to think I was a prude. And I never said "yes" because I didn't want him to think I was a tramp. So I always said "maybe."

It worked like a charm. I had so many proposals I couldn't count them.

I am now married to the greatest guy in the world.

THE MAYBE GIRL DEAR MAYBE: I can only assume that your "maybe" turned into a "yes." What was the time schedule on that?

DEAR ABBY: I am a woman who is very much in love with a man who says he loves me, but I can't seem to hang on to him. He disappears for weeks at a time and I don't know how to locate him. When he is gone I just about go crazy. He is gone now.

I went to a spiritual person who does healing, reads palms, and communicates with people who are far away. She says she can help me get my man back for good, but first I have to sign up for a program which costs $50 for the first session, and $10 every two weeks after that.

I don't have a lot of money, but I would sure pay that much to get my man back. Should I sign up?

LOUISIANA

DEAR LA: Save your money and report that "spiritual person" to the Better Business Bureau and the Bureau Division of your local police department.

If your man loves you, you won't need a third party to get him back. He'll come back.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I and our infant daughter recently moved into a new home. A friendly neighbor told me that if I needed a sitter, her 16-year-old daughter, Mary, was available. Last evening I hired Mary from 8 p.m. until 10:30 p.m.

When I left, the baby was asleep, so that all Mary had to do was sit. I instructed her NOT to accept any collect calls because my husband was out of town and the call would be wasted. I told her to help herself to a soft drink and some cookies if she wanted a snack. She said, "No thanks, I'm on a diet." (I believed her because she is terribly overweight.)

When I returned, Mary said, "Oh, your husband called. I forgot and accepted the call."

After she left, I noticed that my drawers had been rummaged through and that a whole month's supply of birth control pills was missing! Later, I found two empty spaghetti cans and the carton from a half gallon of ice cream in the trash.

My question: Should I tell Mary's mother? That little sneak needs to be punished. My husband says to skip it.

UNDECIDED

DEAR UNDECIDED: Tell her mother. But not so she'll punish her daughter. (The last thing Mary needs is more punishment; she's already brutally punishing herself!) The girl obviously has some serious emotional problems which desperately require professional treatment. It would be kind of you to urge that mother to get her daughter into therapy. My question: If she were YOUR daughter, wouldn't you want to know?

DEAR ABBY: My boyfriend, Mike, walked me home from school the other day. I knew that my older brother was home because I saw his bike, but I invited Mike in anyway. I know Mike well enough to have invited him into my bedroom. We were partially lying down on the bed — not all the way, and we weren't doing anything wrong.

Unless you consider kissing wrong.

Well, my brother walked in on us and I know he thought we were doing something other than just that.

I don't want my brother to think I'm a cheap tramp because I'm not, but how can I convince him? And if he tells my parents, what should I tell them?

I've never gone all the way with a boy, and I don't plan to until I'm married.

How can I convince my brother that we weren't doing anything wrong? I am 15.

INNOCENT

DEAR INNOCENT: If you walked into your brother's bedroom and found him and his girlfriend on his bed kissing, what would you think? The Bible tells us to avoid the appearance of evil. That's good advice. Keep your boyfriend out of your bedroom and if you're questioned by your parents — tell the truth and hope they buy it.

DEAR ABBY: I was happy the councilman in my area voted against those kooks who wanted to go around naked on the beaches near where I live.

What's the matter with people today, anyway? Are they trying to make a big nudist colony out of our country? Don't we have enough trouble without letting those perverts and sex maniacs take off their clothes and run naked?

How do you stand? DISGUSTED IN VENICE, CALIF.

DEAR DISGUSTED: Clothed. But nudity has little to do with immoral behavior. There are nudist camps for entire families, and there is nothing "immoral" about them.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Opening lead — four of hearts.

Bridge would be a much simpler game if, every time you had to make a crucial play to make or break the contract, some kind soul would come along and tell you to take your time and be especially careful at this critical juncture.

The trouble is that such situations sneak up on you unawares, and the first thing you know an opportunity to shine passes you by and it is too late to do anything about it.

Let's say you're East and your dear partner leads a heart against three notrump. When dummy follows low you win with the queen and return a heart to the ace.

Declarer now proceeds to establish his diamonds and it does not matter what you do. The only tricks you and your partner can score are two hearts and two diamonds and South makes three notrump.

Now let's go back to trick one and assume that this kind soul we've been talking about gently tugged on your sleeve the moment declarer played the nine of hearts from dummy.

In that case you'd play the eight on the nine in order to allow your hearts to get fully established before your one and only entry—the ace of diamonds—was forced out.

If you made this unusual play, declarer would go down regardless of how he continued thereafter. You would score three heart tricks and two diamonds, assuming that West won the first diamond lead, and South would have no one to blame for his downfall except your good old friend the sleeve-tugger.

But, of course, if you made this play without your good friend's assistance, that would be even better.

YOUNG VICTIMS... lost in Honduras.

Storm Orphans: Kids Cry In Mud

CHOLOMA, Honduras (AP)—They wander through the refugee camps looking for a familiar face. Sometimes you see them sitting in the mud crying. A few don't know their names.

They are the little victims—the orphaned, lost and abandoned children of Hurricane Fifi.

Nobody knows how many there are and nobody knows exactly what's going to happen to them.

'Exploitation' Danger
Bessie de Morazan, chief of Honduras' social services department, said she fears these children may become "objects of exploitation."

Teen-aged girls could be forced into prostitution and younger children could be made into beggars on the streets, where anything could happen to them, she said.

"There have to be a lot of children without families, but we don't know how many," said Lt. Col. Eduardo Andino, head of the national emergency committee.

'Taking A Roll'
"Right now we are just taking a roll of people who want to provide foster homes for one or two children."

A committee spokesman said at last count about 200 families had offered to take in children.

Long-range prospects for these children are bleak.

Honduras, the poorest country in Central America even before Fifi's rampage Sept. 19, has no government institutions for orphaned or abandoned children.

The few orphanages in the country are private, and they were all filled before Fifi wrote her name in Honduran history.

About 125 orphans, flooded out of an orphanage in Sula just outside this devastated city, are now doubled up at another orphanage in Tegucigalpa, the capital, while their cottages at Sula await refurbishing.

Some of the Sula buildings that escaped flooding are being used as an emergency clinic for children and expectant mothers.

"These babies are coming in so malnourished," said a Peace Corps nurse. "They were malnourished before the hurricane, but now they've had nothing to eat for days."

Clinic Out Of Money
"There's a malnutrition clinic right near here in San Felipe, but they're closing it because they don't have any money. And all those kids will just go home and die."

The adoption route is a long, difficult one. Mrs. Morazan said that between 1966 and June 1974, only 180 children were adopted. She said 83 of the adoptions were by foreigners.

"Adoption is something very delicate," she said. "Extensive studies have to be done. With abandoned children, we must try to find the parents and get legal consent."

But even if permission can be obtained for an adoption, problems still can arise.

"What if a child is put in the home of a rich family?" Mrs. Morazan asked. "What happens a year later when his poor campesino father comes back and wants to take him home?"

Magazine Claims Nixon Offered Pardon Return

NEW YORK (AP)—Time magazine says former President Richard M. Nixon called President Ford and offered to return the pardon the chief executive had granted him. Ford declined the offer, Time says.

Time reported Sunday, in a column by Washington Bureau Chief Hugh Sidey in the magazine's upcoming issue, that Nixon made the call to Ford two weeks ago after the pardon touched off a storm of controversy.

"Nixon said that he was sorry for all the trouble the pardon had caused," Sidey writes. "Then he offered to send the pardon back if it would help. No, said Ford, he did not want that. He told the ex-President to stand firm. It would blow over."

On Sept. 8, a month after Nixon's resignation, Ford pardoned his predecessor for any crimes he may have committed against the United States while in the White House. Sidey says Ford took the action in the belief that "the nation's problems needed attention, but they would not have it if everyone was preoccupied with the pardon and the Watergate tapes."

Sidey says that Ford told Nixon "he thought his decision was the right one. He still feels that way."

Old Farmer's Riddle: What pierces and leaves no hole? (Answer below.)

Ask the Old Farmer: As a girl, my mother lived near Moodus, Conn., where mysterious noises were often heard. Much effort is supposed to have been made at finding the origin of these noises, but I have not been able to find any information about them. Can you shed any light? C. N., NYC.
Some people claim that old mines in the area are responsible: cave-ins, wind, and so on.

San Francisco — Foggy days around Snug Harbor. Chill as an eviction notice. I should know. Snug Harbor is turning into a condominium. Out, bum, out!

I said to the children: "Don't anybody speak to me until I've had coffee."

I read a survey that says most people would rather live in the country than in the city or the suburbs. I can see that. I don't imagine they turn the farm into a condominium.

If they do, you could move into the barn.

Foggy days. The two thousand dollar tans acquired on the beaches of Hawaii are fading.

"Joe, look at me! I'm turning all white again. Joe! Are you listening?"

Cinderella is back in the ashes.

The condominium scatters are offered to the present tenants. A snidgin off because we were here first.

However once you own the place, you inherit its weaknesses — all of which I know too well.

Now if the heat drops off, I phone management: "Hey, Sharkskin! How about turning up the heat? You could hang meat in here."

When the roof leaks: "I hate to tell you this, friend, but I'm building an ark. I don't think this water is doing your wall-to-wall any good."

Not so when you have put in the down payment. When I was doing time for the Board of Education, they didn't tell me most of adult life is spent in home repair.

They taught me why certain angles were equal to others. They showed how square A was compared to a square named B.

They didn't teach me how to put new rollers in a sliding door.

When I did own a house, I had that problem. That's how I met a chap they did teach about sliding doors. He came by and fixed mine. It cost a fortune.

Edgy days when moving time comes around. Have to move the two black cats. (Cats will stay in a new home if you put butter on their paws the first day.)

Have to move the plants on the deck. I've grown quite a garden, all in pots. You don't hand over that kind of thing to the moving men.

I must gather up clothes — after awhile things get scattered all over the place. I know where everything is. A well-meaning girl came in one day and "straightened" my cupboards.

She put the spices in one section. She put sugars together — brown, white and lump. She put pots in one area and glasses in another.

I couldn't cook for a week. Finally I got it disorganized again.

One thing about moving, you find a lot of stuff that disappeared so long ago you forgot about it.

Once I found a watch. It had frozen at a quarter of four. It was tucked in a pocket of some pants I meant to throw away. Only I saved them in case I had to do house painting.

I found a 10 dollar bill in the pocket of some pajamas I gave up wearing.

No cloud without its silver lining.

I said to the moppets: "There's too blamed many settlers around here. Hitch up the wagons! We're moving West!"

I went out in the kitchen and got some more coffee.

On second thought I put a little brandy in it.

The children said: "The Cap'n's caught the trade winds. He'll bring us to port or he'll sail us under."

Patriots Stun Rams

By Associated Press
The New England Patriots and St. Louis Cardinals continued their surprisingly winning ways Sunday, the Miami Dolphins had to scramble to hand upstart San Diego a loss and Baltimore handed Coach Howard Schnellenberger his walking papers.

The Patriots, like the Cards unbeaten in three National Football League games, whipped the Los Angeles Rams 20-14 behind the passing of Jim Plunkett and the placekicking of John Smith.

Terry Metcalf sped 94 yards with the second-half kickoff and Mel Gray snared a 68-yard touchdown pass in the Cardinals' 29-7 victory over the Cleveland Browns.

The Dolphins overcame a 21-7 deficit midway in the final period with three touchdowns, the last one on Jim Kiick's five-yard run with 15 seconds to play, to down the Chargers 28-21.

And Schnellenberger was fired by Colts' President Robert Irsay after Baltimore was beaten 30-10 by Philadelphia. Joe Thomas, the team's vice president and general manager, was named by Irsay as the new head coach.

In Sunday's other games, Oakland blanked Pittsburgh 17-0, New Orleans nosed out Atlanta 14-13, Minnesota edged Chicago 11-7, Buffalo beat the New York Jets 16-12, the New York Giants turned back Dallas 14-6, Green Bay slipped past Detroit 21-19, Kansas City beat Houston 17-7 and Cincinnati defeated San Francisco 21-3.

The heavily favored Rams struck for the game's first touchdown on Tony Baker's one-yard burst. But the Patriots came right back with Plunkett passing to Darryl Stingley in the end zone for 20 yards and a touchdown.

New England moved in front to stay on a 39-yard field goal by Smith early in the second half, he made it 13-7 with a 23-yard field goal late in the third quarter and, at the start of the fourth period, Plunkett hit Randy Vataha on a 21-yard scoring pass play.

John Hadl got the Rams' other touchdown on a 36-yard pass to Lance Rentzel with about four minutes to play.

Norm Thompson intercepted a pass and raced 56 yards down the left sideline to score for St. Louis in the second period.

Metcalf fielded the second-half kickoff at his six-yard line and burst through would-be tacklers for a 14-0 St. Louis lead. Greg Pruitt then teamed with Gloster Richardson on a 55-yard touchdown pass for Cleveland. But Jim Hart pitched to Gray for a 20-7 Cards lead on the next play from scrimmage.

A 13-yard scoring pass from Bob Griese to Nat Moore over the middle cut the Miami deficit to 21-14 with 8:30 remaining. Then the Dolphins tied it 21-21 with 3:38 remaining when Griese took his squad 58 yards in six plays, Larry Csonka capping the drive with a three-yard plunge.

Tom Sullivan scored on runs of 28 and three yards. Joe Lavender intercepted a pass and returned it 37 yards for a touchdown and Tom Dempsey kicked field goals of 20, 45 and 42 yards in the Eagles' rout. Baltimore scored on Bert Jones' 22-yard pass to Glenn Doughty and Toni Linhart's 45-yard field goal.

Oakland did all the scoring in the first half with the help of two long punt returns by Ron Smith and a pass interception by safety George Atkinson.

Smith's first punt return, a 47-yard sideline jaunt, gave Oakland a first down at the Pittsburgh 28. Five plays later, quarterback Ken Stabler rolled one yard for a touchdown.

Then Atkinson intercepted a Joe Gilliam pass and returned it 26 yards to the Pittsburgh 19. Stabler hit Cliff Branch with a touchdown pass on the next play.

Later in the second period, Smith returned a punt 33 yards to the Pittsburgh 33 to set up a 25-yard field goal by George Blanda.

Jess Phillips slammed eight yards for a touchdown with five minutes left in the game to give the Saints their first victory of the season—and New Orleans' first over Atlanta since they beat the Falcons in 1967, their initial meeting.

Quarterback Fran Tarkenton threw his 250th touchdown pass and safety Paul Krause grabbed his 63rd career interception, leading the Vikings past Chicago. Jim Braxton's 21-yard fourth-period touchdown run carried Buffalo over the Jets in a game played in gusty winds and driving rain.

The Giants struck for two touchdowns within a 64-second span in the second quarter on the running of rookie Doug Kolar and the passing of Norm Snead to upend Dallas and give Bill Arnsparger his first victory as New York's head coach. Chester Marcol's fourth field goal of the game, a 22-yarder with 1:03 left to play, lifted Green Bay over the Lions.

A 35-yard field goal by Jan Stenerud and Willie Ellison's eight-yard touchdown run enabled Kansas City to overcome a sluggish first half and beat the Oilers. Quarterback Ken Anderson hit Isaac Curtis on a 22-yard touchdown pass and a 48-yard bomb that led to another score in the Bengals' victory over San Francisco.

Minnesota Scout Impressed

By STEVE GILLISPIE
Star Sports Writer

"What the problem will be is stopping Nebraska because they execute so well and are very talented."

"Since Nebraska was in such command of the game, they stuck with basics most of the time and didn't have to do anything unusual," Olson said.

"For example, Humm never ran the option or threw very long and he was getting almost unbelievable protection from his offensive line."

However, Olson believes that the Gophers have a good chance of beating the Huskers.

"The Big Ten has come back as a great football conference with teams like Purdue, Iowa and Wisconsin getting some good wins," he pointed out.

"And we think we're one of the better teams in our conference," Olson added. "In order to beat Nebraska, we'll have to play almost error-free ball and hope for a few breaks to go our way."

Olson was particularly impressed with Husker quarterback Dave Humm's "coolness and stability he gave the offense."

"We knew Humm threw well, did a good job of mixing up his plays, could really read defenses and change plays at the line of scrimmage," Olson continued.

"However, he looks even better in person, as does the entire Nebraska team."

Olson said he took in consideration the fact that Northwestern had a lot of injured and the Huskers were keyed up after the loss to Wisconsin in his assessment of NU.

The Nebraska-Northwestern game went just about the way Minnesota scout Paul Olson, a junior varsity coach for the Gophers, expected.

So what did Olson do and learn during the Huskers' 49-7 win over Northwestern? "There are certain things that can't be learned from watching films," Olson said.

"That includes timing how long punts and kickoffs are in the air, watching certain players on pass routes and the current injury situation."

Olson explained that the Minnesota coaching staff has studied films on the Huskers quite extensively and "we have a good idea of what to expect."

'James' System Big Eight Clubs Find Winning Ways Again

By RANDY YORK
Prep Sports Editor

If you haven't heard of the James System, then you're not "up" on Nebraska high school football. It's Bill James' way of coaching Bellevue.

It happens to be the most successful high school coaching system in the state. James has carved a 70-14-3 record in the rugged Metro Conference since it was formed in 1965.

That's slightly more than 83% success against a meat-grinding schedule. This year is no exception.

The defending state champion Chieftans are off to a 4-0 start and own the No. 3 spot in the Sunday Journal and Star's Class A ratings.

"They'll have an opportunity to improve that status Friday when they host top-ranked Omaha Benson. It could be one of those "Game of the Year" situations expected to draw in the vicinity of 10,000 fans.

What's the success formula behind the James System?

The answers vary among his former athletes and current assistant coaches. But a unique part of the Bellevue program is having assistant coaches delegated responsibility by position rather than by grade level.

In Lincoln and most other Class A schools, coaches are called either sophomore, reserve or varsity coaches. At Bellevue, they're either offensive or defensive line and backfield coaches.

James prefers his method because a coach is familiar with the line and backfield candidates during his entire Bellevue career.

The constant transfer of near-by Offutt Air Force Base personnel which creates numerous student turnover, planted the seeds for the James system.

"Sometimes, but not usually, we are fortunate enough to get some kids in who help us right away," says James. "But most of the ones who help us have spent at least a year in the system."

James points out that 16 seniors on this year's Bellevue varsity were among 80 sophomores in the program two years ago, emphasizing the high turnover rate.

An accelerated weight training program, which James installed 10 years ago, has been an equally key factor in producing winning Bellevue football teams.

"We're not sure if this is the key because some of our kids aren't that strong," says James. "But the idea is if you're interested enough to improve yourself in the off-season, then you have more than your own selfish interests at heart."

"Lifting weights isn't especially glamorous or fun," according to James. "So we figure if a kid is willing to put in the time and stick with it, generally he's the kind we're looking for."

Compiled From News Wires

Big Eight conference football teams, unimpressive in winning only three of eight games last Saturday, roared back into prominence with seven wins in eight tries.

The most significant victories were achieved by the two teams expected to run one-two in the league — Oklahoma and Nebraska.

The Sooners, using two first-half touchdowns by Joe Washington tallied 42 points in the first period in cruising past Utah State, 72-3. OU accumulated 559 yards rushing and passing indicating that coach Barry Switzer's crew undoubtedly has a powerful offense despite struggling past Baylor, 28-11, two weeks ago.

Nebraska crushed Northwestern, 49-7, rebounding from a 21-20 loss one week ago to Wisconsin.

Colorado surprised Wisconsin, 24-21, at Boulder. Coach Bill Mallory's Buffs, erratic in two earlier defeats, tripped the nationally-rated Badgers on sophomore Bill Billy Waddy's winning touchdown early in the fourth quarter.

Missouri stopped the speedy Arizona State Sun Devils, 9-0 at Columbia and handed the Sun Devils their first blanking in 98 games.

Even the three teams which were not highly-regarded won in impressive fashion.

Kansas tripped Florida State 40-9 and Kansas State, achieving three victories without a defeat for the first time since 1939, trounced Pacific, 38-7. Iowa State crushed Brigham Young University, 34-7.

The only loser was Oklahoma State, which fell 31-14 to Baylor, which finally won over a Big Eight team after losing to Oklahoma and Missouri (28-21).

The national trend of upsets which started last week continued as eight members of the Associated Press' top 20 lost.

Among the victims were second-ranked Notre Dame, seventh-rated Arizona State, 11th rated Wisconsin and No. 12th-ranked Oklahoma State.

Notre Dame lost 31-20 to Purdue while eighth-rated Pittsburgh, fell to Southern California, 16-7. No 14 Tennessee made its first visit to Auburn and lost 21-0.

Goolagong Tops Evert In Tourney

DENVER (UPI) — Australian Evonne Goolagong, who ended Chris Evert's 56-match win streak earlier this month in the U.S. Open semifinals, repeated the victory with a 7-5, 3-6, 6-4 upset of the top-seeded Miss Evert Sunday in the finals of the $50,000 Virginia Slims of Denver.

Miss Goolagong, who won the Forest Hills match, 6-0, 6-7, 6-3, and now owns three wins in four matches with Miss Evert this year, took home the $10,000 first place money while Miss Evert won $5,600.

The match ended on a disputed line call with the linesman ruling that an Evert placement to the right corner was long.

Miss Evert, forced to three sets for the first time in the Denver tournament and visibly shaken by the final call, refused to talk to anyone after the match, claiming she was too tired.

Miss Goolagong said she didn't know whether the call was in, but wished the match had ended on a clean call.

"I was glad to see it over," she said. "But at the same time I was disappointed. It was a really close match and could have gone either way. If I had lost that last game I might have lost the match."

Miss Goolagong said her game always seemed to get better when she got behind, when asked about her rallies to win both the first and third set.

"I tend to concentrate more when I'm behind," she said. "It's just more of a challenge. I wish I could do it all the time and get the matches over quickly. It is annoying to know what you can do when you get down to business and go to work."

Cards' Win Earns First-Place Tie

By The Associated Press

The St. Louis Cardinals surged into a tie with the stumbling Pittsburgh Pirates for the lead in the National League East Sunday with only three games left for both major league baseball teams.

Winning 7-3 against the Chicago Cubs, St. Louis, gained a share of the NL East lead with the help of Jose Cruz' pinch hit three-run homer in the sixth inning. The New York Mets beat Pittsburgh 7-2.

The Cards, getting strong pitching from winner John Curtis, 10-14, and reliever Al Hrabosky, led 3-2 in the sixth when two Chicago errors sparked a four-run rally highlighted by Cruz' 15th homer.

St. Louis' Lou Brock singled home a run in the fourth before stealing his 118th base of the season, adding to his record total.

New York's Bob Apodaca, 66, fired a three-hitter and the Mets knocked out Pirate loser Ken Brett, 13-9, in the second inning on Duffy Dyer's run-scoring single, Don Hahn's double and a sacrifice fly.

In other National League games, Cincinnati beat San Francisco 7-3, Montreal downed Philadelphia 6-3, and Houston defeated Atlanta 9-6.

In the American League, Baltimore edged Milwaukee 4-3, New York pounded Cleveland 10-0, Detroit downed Boston 7-4, Oakland beat Chicago 3-2, Texas beat Kansas City 5-0, and California topped Minnesota 4-0.

Johnny Bench's 33rd homer of the season—a three-run blast—sparked Cincinnati, verging on elimination in the NL West, even though it moved to 2½ games behind idle Los Angeles.

Montreal's Ken Singleton cracked his first career grand slam home run in the first inning to help defeat Philadelphia.

A three-run homer by Cliff Johnson with two outs in the eighth inning broke a 6-6 tie and lifted Houston past Atlanta.

Keeping its half-game lead over New York in the AL East, Baltimore snapped a 3-3 tie with Milwaukee in the bottom of the ninth after three walks loaded the bases when Boog Powell drew a two-out walk from Milwaukee reliever Tom Murphy to score the winning run.

New York's Rudy May, 8-5, blanked Cleveland on four hits. Graig Nettles blasted his 21st and 22nd homers of the season for the Yanks, who have only two games remaining while Baltimore has three.

The victory by Detroit mathematically eliminated Boston from the AL East race. Al Kaline's run-scoring single to left field highlighted a decisive four-run outburst by the Tigers in the sixth inning.

Oakland, which has already clinched the AL West title, beat Chicago on a pair of run-scoring singles by reserve infielder Manny Trillo. The A's closed their home season before 6,498 fans.

Texas' Bill Hands pitched a six-hitter against Kansas City and Jim Spencer slammed a two-run homer to pace the Rangers.

Lefty Andy Hassler, 7-11, of California blanked Minnesota on five hits, all singles. Bert Blyleven, 17-17, lost the pitching duel.

Wedman, Walker Lift Kings Over Colonels

By STEVE GILLISPIE

Colorado rookie Scott Wedman helped lead the Kansas City-Omaha Kings to a 102-91 win Sunday night at Pershing Auditorium in a pre-season exhibition opener for both teams.

Wedman kept the Kings close in the second quarter by making five of five from the field and two of two free throws.

In the third quarter the former Buffalo standout added another six points, played good defense and stole the ball several times.

He finished the game with 10 of 12 field goals, two of two free throws for 22 points in 35 minutes of playing time to finish as the Kings' second leading scorer.

The colonels started out in front by outscoring the Kings, 28-15, in the first quarter.

However, the Kings took a one-point lead, 45-44, in the second quarter with Wedman doing most of the scoring. In the third quarter the Kings took a good lead for good.

"We got our running game going in the third quarter and also did a better job on defense," Kings coach Phil Johnson said.

"Wedman and D'Antoni (second-year guard Mike D'Antoni) really gave us a lift in Scott Wedman leading the break in the third quarter.

While the Kings were working the fast break effectively on offense, on defense they were shutting off the Colonels' inside game and rebounding well.

"Kentucky was having a lot of things go their way in the first half after we worked very hard to set up some things," Johnson said.

"However, we started getting those breaks in the last half and the hard work paid off for us."

The Kings were also aided in the second half by the slick passing of Nate Archibald and the clutch shooting of Jimmy Walker.

Walker finished the game with 11 of 13 field goals and seven of nine free throws to lead the Kings with 29 points.

Archibald had five of 11 from the field and five of seven free throws for 15 points and also contributed 11 assists.

In the last half the Kings did a good job of limiting 7-2 Artis Gilmore and 6-9 Dan Issel of Kentucky.

By keeping the ball from the Colonels' two inside players, the Kings were able to get off to a better start on their fast break according to Johnson.

Issel finished with 10 of 20 from the field and six of eight free throws to pace his team with 26 points, while Gilmore had eight of 18 field goals and three of five free throws for 19 points.

The Kings made 42 of 81 from the field with the Colonels only 36 of 77 in the same category. The Kings also out rebounded Kentucky, 45-37.

Nebraska Prep Ratings

By Randy York

Class A

- 1—Omaha Benson (3-0)
- 2—Lincoln Northeast (4-0)
- 3—Bellevue (4-0)
- 4—Lincoln Southeast (4-0)
- 5—Lincoln East (4-0)
- 6—Columbus (4-0)
- 7—Omaha Westside (3-1)
- 8—Omaha Burke (3-1)
- 9—Omaha Ryan (3-1)
- 10—Grand Island (3-1)

Comment — Burke and Grand Island crack ratings for first time. Burke has won three straight since season-opening loss to Benson. Its most recent conquest was 28-15 over previously unbeaten Ryan. Lincoln High (3-1), Creighton Prep (2-2) and Hastings (2-2) are top 10 candidates. Top games Friday are No. 1 Benson at No. 3 Bellevue, No. 6 Columbus at No. 10 Grand Island and No. 4 Southeast against Lincoln High.

Makovicka Helping East Butler

One of the reasons East Butler has such a good football team this year could be the help it's receiving from an assistant coach — John Makovicka.

Makovicka was an all-stater in high school, an all-American and academic all-American at Kearney State and the Sunday Journal and Star college athlete of the year.

While playing for the Antelopes, Makovicka set numerous individual records, six of which still stand including total offense, rushing and scoring.

Makovicka rushed for 280 yards in one game, 1,483 yards in one season and 2,296 in his career, had 1,671 total offense one year and 2,981 career and scored 126 points in one season for Kearney State school records.

Makovicka, a physical therapist at David City, will also be an assistant track coach at East Butler this school year.

Kearney State is going to get rid of a problem that has given the school a difficult job of keeping Cushing Coliseum clean by covering the dirt track around the basketball playing area.

Schneider With AIA

What the Antelopes did was build a basketball arena, put a 220-yard track and jumping area around the basketball playing area and then another building over the track area.

However, the track area was dirt and it has been difficult to keep that dirt out of either the basketball playing area or the rest of the physical education complex.

Former Wayne State basketball standout Dave Schneider has rejoined the Athletics in Action. The 6-9 Blair native led the Wildcats to three NAIA District 11 titles from 1968-70.

Schneider is still Wayne all-time leader in season and career field goal percentages, sixth in career scoring, third in season scoring and sixth in career rebounds.

Former UNO athletic director Clyde Biggers is reportedly having a little trouble in the same position for Richmond. It's said that some school officials thought the athletic director of Nebraska-Lincoln was being hired.

A couple of Richmond coaches also thought they should have gotten the job of athletic director and when the school went outside to Biggers, there was some hard feelings according to an Associated Press story.

The real reason Biggers would want to leave a rather secure position with UNO that paid well for a similar job at Richmond that is surrounded with controversy remains somewhat of a mystery.

Hopefully team officials of the Kansas City-Omaha Kings know why there weren't very many fans at the exhibition game at Pershing Auditorium with the Kentucky Colonels.

The admission price was probably too high for most fans, considering the teams involved and the fact that the game was a pre-season exhibition.

Dominion 500 Win To Rookie Ross

Martinsville, Va. (AP) — Earl Ross, a portly rookie from Ailsa Craig, Ontario, survived a steady stream of spinouts and wrecks Sunday and scored an upset victory in the Old Dominion 500 'Grand National stock car race.

The 32-year-old protege of legendary ex-driver Junior Johnson thus became the first rookie to win a major Grand National event since 1961, when Nelson Stacy took the Southern 500 at Darlington, S.C.

Brock Reveals Threats

CHICAGO (AP) — Outfielder Lou Brock of the St. Louis Cardinals revealed Sunday the details of a letter received last week threatening his life and that of teammate Bake McBride.

"I've been asked a lot of questions and have avoided answering them," Brock said at a news conference prior to a game against the Chicago Cubs. "Bits and pieces have leaked out so I thought that through a press conference, revealing all the details would take some of the pressure off me."

Brock said he was sure the threat had affected his play but, "to what extent I don't know."

Also attending the news conference was Bing Devine, general manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, who spelled out security details which have been taken in St. Louis, Chicago and Montreal, where the Cardinals wind up the regular season in a three-game series beginning Monday.

The letter, dated Sept. 18, 1974, had a St. Louis postmark dated Sept. 19 and was received and opened by the Cardinals Sept. 20. It contained numerous racial slurs and much obscene language.

It said in part:

"By beating out the Pirates this year you're costing me a $50,000.00 winnings I would have had as the result of a bet at large odds I placed on them to win back in April when they were already counted out even by the oddsmakers."

"This is no idle threat: If I think so I can assure you that neither of you... will live past the 3rd, 4th, or 5th playoff game whether it be in L.A. or Cincy."

"I have only a month or two to live: I have a brain tumor — inoperable — and the pain will — my doctor advises me increase the last month to the intolerable stage: I do not intend to go through that agony: I had hoped to be able to leave my wife and children that $50,000.00, therefore, since you damn Cardinals are taking it away from me, I've decided to take 2 — possibly more — with me. I'll have a revolver loaded with six shots and be in the stands close enough to get you both and save the last shot for myself as since suicide is my only way out — unspeakable agony is not going to be mine."

"I am going to follow you to St. Louis, Chicago, Montreal and L.A. and Cincy if I decide to wait until the end meanwhile you 2... can sweat it out wondering whether I'm going to make my move in St. Louis — wait til Chicago — wait til Montreal or wait til L.A. or Cincy. I'm going to let you sweat it out but I assure you I'm going to kill you both so every time you go out to the outfield you can look anxiously towards the stands for I'll be there and be sure to say goodbye to your family each morning for between now and the next two weeks or so you will have said goodbye for the last time."

"... If this was an idle threat why would I go to all this trouble: I ASSURE YOU I'M GOING TO KILL YOU BOTH."

(Signed).
Outraged and despondent pain racked."

Devine lauded St. Louis police for the "tremendous and helpful job" and said the FBI has been on the case from the outset. He said the Chicago police have been "extremely helpful" and said he assumes that the same cooperation will be received from law enforcement agencies in Canada.

Baltimore's Coach Spot To Thomas

Philadelphia (UPI) — Howard Schnellenberger was dismissed as head coach of the Baltimore Colts by owner Robert Irsay Sunday after the team's 30-10 loss to the Philadelphia Eagles.

Irsay announced to the team in the locker room after the game that he is turning over the coaching duties to general manager Joe Thomas in an effort to turn around the Colts' fortunes after three straight losses.

Schnellenberger, who was not told of the decision until after the team had learned of it, said he intended to fulfill his contract, which is in the second of three years.

"I was hired as head coach," said the man who came to the Colts after a stint as assistant coach with the Miami Dolphins. "I expect to fulfill my contract. It was my life ambition to become a head coach. I worked too hard to get this far, and I don't expect to go out this easy."

Schnellenberger said he was surprised and shaken by the move. He said he will meet Monday with Thomas to discuss the decision.

Chapin Wins 100-Mile Walk

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Bob Chapin, 42-year-old engraver from Independence, Mo., walked 100 miles in less than 24 hours Sunday, after failing six times in the last eight years.

Chapin won the Columbia Track Club's ninth annual 100-mile walk on a quarter-mile high school track in 20:09:20.

Five persons of the 47 who started the AAU-sanctioned race in rain Saturday, walked all 400 laps.

Chuck Hunter, 67, an air traffic controller from Longmont, Colo., was second in 21:14:17.

Larry O'Neil, Kalispell, Mont., a lumber yard operator, was third in 21:53:26; David Leuthold, of Columbia, Missouri University professor, fourth.

Marshall Inks Cubs' Contract

Chicago (AP) — Jim Marshall, who replaced Whitey Lockman as manager of the Chicago Cubs earlier this season, has been signed to lead the Cubs for the 1975 season. The club announced Sunday.

Since taking over the club, Marshall has a 25-41 record including Sunday's 7-3 loss to the St. Louis Cardinals.

Marshall will name his own coaching staff. He indicated that J.C. Martin's contract would be renewed, but that Hank Aguirre and Al Spangler would not be retained.

Ashe Gains Meet Finals

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Overcoming three service breaks in the second set, third-seeded Arthur Ashe pulled out a 7-4 point tie-breaker Sunday to defeat New Zealand's Onny Parun, 6-4, 7-6, in the semifinals of the $100,000 Fireman's Fund international tennis tournament.

Parun, who upset No. 1 seed Jimmy Connors in a quarter-final match Saturday night, was down 5-1 in the second set to Ashe and managed to win the next five games to force the tie-break.

Wagner Wins Snipe Races

Jack Wagner won both races in the Lincoln snipe fleet races at Branched Oak Lake Sunday afternoon.

Judy Corliss finished second and third in the two races respectively while Dick Wadlow finished third and second respectively.

Morning Briefing

A Roundup of Sports News

FOOTBALL

Van Patrick, the familiar voice of the Detroit Lions and Notre Dame football, died Sunday of complications following cancer surgery earlier this year. He was 58.

Calling himself, "The Ole Announcer," Patrick had announced games for Detroit's football Lions and baseball Tigers for 22 years.

Bill Leuek, the Green Bay Packers' starting left guard did not suit up for Sunday's game against the Detroit Lions because of phlebitis in his right leg.

BASEBALL

The Kansas City Royals fired batting instructor Charley Lau, considered one of the most popular and most-in-demand coaches in baseball.

Lau is given credit for the batting development of such hitting stars as Joe Rudi of Oakland and Hal McRae of Kansas City.

Hank Aaron, baseball's all-time home run king, said he has not decided whether he will retire this year or play another season.

The World Champion Oakland A's will probably move to Seattle or New Orleans by 1976 according to the San Francisco Examiner.

Either the A's or the San Francisco Giants will have to leave the Bay area because both are box office losers at home and it'll probably be the A's, the Examiner said.

OTHER SPORTS

Southern Methodist has learned that All-Southwest Conference basketball center Ira Terrell is ineligible because of rules infractions unless he wins an appeal from the NCAA.

Frank Mahovich, the 37-year-old veteran left wing, scored with 2:46 left in the third period Sunday giving Team Canada a 4-3 win over Sweden in an exhibition hockey game at Goteborg, Sweden.

Six-year-old Chivas Regal won the $70,000 Grand Prix Steeplechase race Sunday.

King Tady of France finished second, ten lengths back. Mile Zero of Italy was third and 16-year-old Cogne of Italy was fourth.

The Italian Association for the Safeguard of Animals had opposed Cogne's participation in the race on the grounds he was too old and nearly blind.

PROUDLY PRESENT NEW TWO-DOOR HARDTOPS.

'75 DODGE CHARGER Special Edition. (It's a whole new car!)

DODGE CHARGER.

We're sorry our picture can't begin to do justice to our all-new Charger Special Edition '75. You just have to come in and see it "in person"! The new Charger is a "classic automobile." Its style is pure, correct, and refined. Charger is a personal car for the discriminating driver. It is luxurious without being pretentious. We Dodge Boys think this all-new Charger Special Edition '75 is your kind of car. It only comes "one way"—the way you, personally, would like to drive your new 1975 Dodge Charger. Drive one now.

'75 DODGE CORONET (A little bit smaller — a little bit sportier.)

DODGE CORONET.

If the cars you've been looking at so far seem "too small" or "too plain" (or "too expensive"), the all-new '75 Dodge Coronet two-door hardtop could be just what you're looking for. It's a little bit smaller and a little bit sportier. And we Dodge Boys can show you three models in our new hardtop: the value-packed Coronet two-door, the step-up Coronet Custom two-door, and the top-of-the-line Coronet Brougham two-door! One thing in common—all three are all-new. Let us show you our new '75 Dodge Coronet two-door hardtops now!

See my Dodge ACTION TEAM!

If You Thought I-80 Was Bad, Don't Fly

WING-TO-WING AIRPORT PARKING . . . about 80 fly in on UNL football Saturdays.

By LIANE GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

Scientists have long been puzzled by the mass emigration of European lemmings, those small, arctic mouse-like rodents who march steadily and slowly into the sea to drown.

Similarly, scientists have watched for some time now the mass migration of two-legged, red-clad creatures in the state of Nebraska, U.S.A.

At least five or six times a year these creatures, sometimes referred to as avid, Big Red football fans, flock to the Capital City of Lincoln. They come by train, bus, car, motorcycle and just plain, old, trusty, dusty feet.

What few people realize though is that the sea of red also invades Lincoln from the sky.

Compared to a regular Saturday, the Municipal Airport begins to look a little like New York's Kennedy International.

Normally, 10 to 15 planes land in Lincoln on Saturdays. Many of those are commercial craft that drop in to load passengers on board and take off.

But on football Saturdays, there are probably 80 private planes flown in for the games, said Tom Umberger, president of Lincoln Aviation Institute.

Primarily, they come from western and central Nebraska, Umberger said, but if the opposing team is from a nearby state, a lot of out-state fans fly in too.

Jim Lowe, supervisor at the airport tower, said air traffic becomes "rather heavy" between 10:30 a.m. and noon on days the Huskers play in Lincoln.

"We have facilities enough to handle normal football traffic," Lowe said, "but there are situations when we've had to ask pilots to hold west or east of the airport until we can fit them into the traffic pattern."

Lowe said quite a few fans from other states fly in for the Oklahoma, Oklahoma State and Colorado games. Probably the heaviest "foreign" traffic, he said, is before the Missouri game.

John Gauger, a businessman from Lexington, flew in Saturday to watch the Huskers trounce Northwestern 49 to 7.

"There're no state troopers up there," Gauger quipped, "but it's still pretty busy."

He said Saturday was his first experience flying to a home game. "I just got sick of driving in all that traffic," he explained.

Gauger, who pilots a four-seater Cessna 175, said he figures it took him an hour and a half to fly in with a tailwind. That also includes a stop in York to pick up his daughter Kathy's boyfriend.

Total flying cost, he said, is about $30, compared to at least $20 to drive his Volkswagen the 340 miles round trip between Lexington and Lincoln.

"I don't save a hell of a lot, but it sure is faster," he said.

It doesn't cost anything to land at the airport, according to Umberger. "It's just like driving a car . . .

"If you wanted to go to Omaha, you'd jump in your car and drive over. The hard part is trying to find a parking space."

For flying fans, the biggest trick is getting from the airport to the stadium before kickoff time in bumper-to-bumper traffic. Airport officials said most flying fans call taxis, take a courtesy car or have friends pick them up.

N.Y. Policeman's Body Sawed Up

•The New York Times

New York — Detectives canvassed the Upper West Side of Manhattan Sunday in search of details that would shed light on the murder and dismemberment of a police officer whose body was discovered Saturday.

According to police sources, one line of the intensive investigation is centering on homosexual bars and gathering places in the area of West 79th St. where the body of police officer Patrick J. Kelly was found.

Meanwhile, Dr. Joseph Furey of the chief medical examiner's office, who began an autopsy Sunday, said that preliminary findings indicated that the dismemberment "was done by someone who obviously knew what he was doing."

Body Cut With Saw

He said he could not tell whether the body of the 46-year-old officer had been sexually mutilated, but he added that there were deep cuts along the lower torso. Furey said the body appeared to have been cut with a saw.

Furey said he would not be able to determine either the cause or the time of the officer's death until sometime Monday at the earliest.

The parts of the body were found early Saturday morning outside a Chinese laundry at 220 79th St., between Broadway and Amsterdam Ave. A passer-by noticed parts of human limbs wrapped in a blue blanket and notified the police. Next to the blanket the police found a heavy-duty plastic bag in which there were other body parts. From fingerprints, the police within seven hours were able to identify the dead man as officer Kelly.

Deputy Chief Inspector William Averill, who is commanding the investigation, said that, from interviews with civilians, the police were able to track officer Kelly's movements on Friday from his Bronx home to the West Side area where he was known.

Chronic Alcoholism

Others close to the investigation said that Kelly, who had been assigned to limited duty because of chronic alcoholism, was known to frequent bars in the neighborhood.

Three months ago he had been assigned to the motor pool at a Queens precinct because of a drinking problem.

Forty detectives under the chief's command spent Sunday and the night before systematically knocking on doors and following leads.

Until last July, Kelly lived with his wife and three of their four children in a garden apartment in Commack, N.Y. A neighbor, Mrs. John Heffernan, who said she was a good friend of the family, said that last spring the Kellys bought a home in new Port Richey, Fla.

Mrs. Kelly and her two youngest children, 10 and 13 years old, moved there. The officer was planning to retire and join his family there shortly.

In the meantime, Kelly had been living with his 20-year-old daughter, Susan, in the Bronx. Their oldest child, a son, lived on his own.

RESISTER . . . to refuse two-year service.

Ford's Clemency Called Servitude

NEW YORK (AP) — A young draft dodger says he will confront President Ford's clemency officials Monday in Washington and refuse alternative service in an effort to win "total, unconditional and universal amnesty" for all Vietnam-era draft resisters and deserters.

Bill Meis, 29, of Decatur, Ill., who returned to the United States last week from Canada with help from the Safe Return Amnesty Committee, based here, said in an interview Sunday he was worried that the confrontation might result in his arrest.

"But if you commit yourself to action," Meis said, "you have to be willing to take risks."

Meis, under indictment charging violation of the Selective Service law, is one of about 4,000 draft evaders the government considers fugitives — 3,000 of whom are in Canada. The government says more than 12,000 Vietnam-era deserters are currently at large.

On Sept. 16, President Ford offered clemency to draft dodgers and deserters who return and work at public service jobs "promoting national health, safety or interest" for up to 24 months. The work would be considered acknowledgment of the draft evaders' allegiance to the United States. Deserters are required to reaffirm allegiance with an oath.

"I have never been disloyal," Meis said. "The President demands that I perform involuntary servitude, even though the Constitution clearly forbids such treatment. I cannot accept these proposals."

Meis and Mike Uhl, national coordinator of Safe Return, refused to say how or exactly where the Washington confrontation would take place but Uhl said Meis would announce his intentions to refuse alternative service to "officials directly responsible for civilian and military review and overseeing and implementing Ford's earned re-entry program."

Meis said, "I urge President Ford, the Congress of the United States and above all the American people to support and declare a total, unconditional and universal amnesty. I urge that this be done not only for myself but for my wife and children, for my brothers in exile at home and abroad, and for those men and women whose resistance from within the armed forces earned them less than honorable discharges."

From Washington, Meis said he would go to Springfield, Ill., and surrender to a U.S. attorney. Uhl said Safe Return would offer legal counsel in addition to Meis' private attorney — and provide bail if Meis is jailed.

A youth counselor and aspiring novelist, Meis fled to Montreal in 1968 to duck the draft after he was denied a series of appeals for status as a conscientious objector. His wife, Elaine, 29, accompanied him. They have two children, Jamie, 2, and Marika, eight months.

Meis' father is a Decatur dentist.

Russians Allow Showing Of Art

MOSCOW (AP) — More than 5,000 spectators gathered in a park meadow Sunday afternoon for what was believed to be the first outdoor exhibition of unofficial art in the Soviet Union since the 1920s.

The show, attracting a cheerful crowd under a sunny sky, contrasted sharply with an attempt two weeks earlier by a group of artists to stage an exhibit of their abstract paintings in a vacant city lot.

Plainclothes police, using bulldozers and water cannons, broke that show up before it could start, and roughed up a number of spectators.

Following a burst of protests, the Moscow City Council gave permission for a four-hour exhibit in Ismailovsky Park on the eastern outskirts of the city.

Exhibit Not Hindered

The exhibit was not hindered by authorities and no uniformed police were even in view, but eight busloads of militiamen were standing about a mile from the showing.

Most of the paintings did not fit the strictures of Socialist Realism and are not usually allowed to be shown publicly.

"This is the first time I've exhibited publicly since 1963 and it probably will be the last for a while," said Misha Chernishev, whose brightly colored cubist paintings drew a large crowd.

"What's the thought behind all this?" asked an elderly skeptic. "Whatever you want it to be," shrugged the artist.

Poet Yevgeny Yevtushenko came, and after viewing the paintings, said, "I see some good pictures, some bad ones and some mediocre ones, but the most important fact is that they are here in the first place."

Observers agreed that the last time such a free-wheeling outdoor display of art was seen in Russia occurred in the relatively liberal years following the 1917 Revolution when modern art was given its head as Communism struggled to gain a foothold.

Within a decade, however, the modernistic standards were officially banned.

Most of the painting seen Sunday was not daring by Western abstract standards, but as one artist said, "It certainly is different than the so-called modern art the people see at Tretyakov," referring to Moscow's main contemporary museum.

Wooden Easels

The crowd gathered in tight clumps around the canvases exhibited on crude wooden easels, obscuring the view to those on the fringes.

Some artists were applauded as they explained the purpose and technique of their painting. "That's a hand, a leg and that's a face," patiently explained an artist named Marinburg.

"What's a face?" asked a woman in the crowd. "Right there," he replied, pointing to a blob of red.

State GOP Leader Had His Lists Mixed

Washington (AP) — The chairman of Nebraska's Republican Party apparently got his mailing lists mixed up, and the result was a contribution to the Democrats.

GOP Chairman Bill Barrette sent a fund-raising request to former Nebraska James C. Webster, now residing in Arlington, Va. There would be nothing wrong in that, except for the fact that Webster is a legislative assistant to Democratic Sen. George McGovern.

In his letter to Webster, Barrette said Republican Reps. John Y. McCollister and Charles Thone faced tough competition from "two well-known and very well-financed" Democrats in the November election. Barrette also said Mrs. Haven Smith, the 3rd District GOP candidate, was "gaining on her opponent."

Barrette then asked if Webster would be interested in a $100 GOP booster membership, or in making any contribution to the Nebraska GOP in the interest of a "strong two-party system and in gaining (Republican) strength in the U.S. Congress."

In a return letter to Barrette, Webster said he was surprised to hear that any Nebraska Republicans were under-financed and said that would be "a drastic reversal of the norm for Nebraska politics . . .

"I would suspect that you must regret the outflow of money from Nebraska to Maurice Stans in Washington in 1972, to finance the Committee for the Re-Election of the President. If those funds were available to you today, your letter may not have been necessary," Webster wrote.

He concluded: "In the spirit of strengthening the two-party system, on which we appear to agree, I am today sending a check to the Nebraska Democratic State Central Committee in the hope that it can be used for the campaigns." of the three Democratic congressional candidates.

Current Model Year To Pass Unmourned

Detroit (UPI) — The current automobile model year passes unmourned into history Monday. As the last of the 1974 models rolled off the assembly lines, auto executives agreed it was a bad year and that 1975 could only show improvement.

But the official 1975 model year began with strikes that threatened to cut production and swell unemployment rolls.

"We're not sorry to see the 1974 model year fade into history," said General Motors Corp. Chairman Richard C. Gerstenberg.

His fellow executives echoed that sentiment.

Provisional figures put 1974 production at no more than 5.65 million, down 25% from the record 7.53 million built a year earlier.

The "official" new car year begins Oct. 1, but many dealers already have received the go-ahead to sell 1975 models.

As the 1974 model year wound down, more than 15,000 American Motors Corp. workers were idle because of a United Auto Workers strike that began Sept. 16.

Ford Motor Co. and Chrysler Corp., their assembly lines disrupted by strikes at key part supplier plants, have announced layoffs involving 34,250 workers in Ontario, New Jersey, Kentucky and Michigan.

GM, the giant of the industry, said it may close its 26 assembly plants this week if another strike is not settled within a few days. A strike at Arvin Industries Inc. of Franklin, Ind., which manufactures exhaust systems and catalytic converters, caused the layoffs at Ford and Chrysler. GM's problems were caused by a walkout last week at its Delco-Rey Division in Anderson, Ind., where 14,000 workers produce all of the company's starters, generators and ignitions.

Despite the disrupted start of the new year, auto executives predicted generally higher 1975 sales, partly on grounds that sales cannot worsen.

Overall, industry analysts expect the big four automakers to sell anywhere from 8.5 million to 10.2 million new cars.

But general uncertainty about the economic situation coupled with price increases averaging $420 per car are troubling the industry.

"They're really scared of the prices," said Joe Girard, an East Detroit dealer often called the No. 1 car salesman in the world. "We're going to lose a lot of people because they can't fit the increases into their budget."

Only three small subcompact models will carry price tags below $3,000 — the AMC Gremlin, Ford Pinto and GM Vega.
